BURBANK, Cal., June 4.—(AP)—Boeing Flying Fortresses, those four-motored, wide-ranging bombers which have proved their deadly efficiency on many a fighting front, are rolling off the Vega Aircraft Corporation's assembly line, six months ahead of schedule.

President Courtlandt S. Gross disclosed today that the young Vega organization, where initial tooling was started less than a year ago, is the first plant to start deliveries under a pooled facilities plan, designed to speed production of the giant bombers for the United States Army air forces.

Full Production Schedule For Giant Bombing Planes

Gross announced a full production schedule for the B-17—official designation of the fortress—without slowing the output of Vega Ventura twin-engine bombers for the British. "In fact, the men are well ahead of schedule on the Ventura bombers," he declared.

Under the production pooling plan, Vega and Douglas, as well as Boeing, are manufacturing the B-17. One hundred Vega engineers spent several weeks at the Boeing plant last fall, obtaining engineering data on the craft.

"Now," said Gross, "the fortresses are being manufactured completely by Vega and its parts subcontractor, with the exception of such purchased parts as engines, instruments, propellers and tires."

Congratulations Received From General Arnold

Gross made public a telegram from Lieutenant General Henry H. Arnold, commander of the United States Army air forces:

"Congratulations on your splendid record of being six months ahead of schedule. This accomplishment is the re-

Production of both the B-17 and the Vega Ventura is on a 24-hour day, six-day week schedule. The Vega factory, newest of southern California's major aircraft plants, occupied its present quarters little more than a year ago.

MIDWAY GARRISON ATTACKED BY JAPANESE AERIAL RAIDERS

Heydrich Dies; Gestapo Takes Terrible Toll

LONDON, June 4.—(AP)—Reinhard Heydrich, scourge of Nazi-occupied Europe, died in Paris today while the rifles of his Gestapo took terrible revenge among the populace for his assassination, and tonight the German government prepared to bury him with all the macabre pomp accorded a Chicago gangster of the twenties.

Twenty-four more Czechs, including three women, were executed in Prague and Brunn today following the announcement of Heydrich's death, the Prague radio announced tonight.

But the bloody terror loosed by henchmen of Hitler's hangman, which already has claimed the lives of 187 hostages in Bohemia and Moravia, was building up its own counter-terror. The German radio itself revealed that Nazis in the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia were feeling the hand that strikes by night; the revenge of patriot-assassins who come by parachute from abroad to repay with bomb, fire and steel, for the subjugation of their homeland.

Indeed, a Nazi broadcast this evening, giving what purported to be the details of Heydrich's fatal wounding, said an automatic pistol and an antitank bomb used by the two assassins were of British make and that the same kind of automatic pistol had been found in the possession of some parachute agents who had been dropped by the British planes over the protectorate.

Bomb Got "Hangman." It was the bomb, the broadcast said, which got "der Henker"—the hangman—while he was riding beside his chauffeur on a steep hairpin curve a week ago. The two killers leaped at the car as it rounded the blind curve; the one man with a pistol missed and the second threw the bomb, a fragment wounding Heydrich. The bomb, said the broadcast, was of a type used by the British against tanks in Africa.

Whatever the truth of these details, the British government long ago promised post-war punishment for this "bloodiest of all the bloody Nazis." The 38-year-old Heydrich headed the list of those on whom the British plan to exact retribution for Nazi terrorism in the occupied countries.

The hundreds of Czechs who have died, or who probably faced death tonight because of the assassination, will be merely additions to a vast roll begun in 1941 when Hitler sent "the hangman" as Reichsprotektor for Bohemia and Moravia to Prague to "quiet unrest."

Sullen Hate Unsubdued. Hundreds of executioners' rifles produced a "quiet" but failed to subdue the sullen hate of the freedom-loving Czechs.

And so, on last Tuesday, the propaganda minister of the puppet Czech government finally revealed what had only been hinted

Gentle Hint, Leathernecks! Learn Hymn

A Marine Corps sergeant stationed here has been studying. It seems the sergeant who, out of the kindness of his heart, we keep nameless, attended a banquet recently at which Major Meigs O. Frost, district public relations officer, burst into the Marine hymn—"From the Halls of Montezuma, etc.," and sought help of the sergeant.

The sergeant, our nameless goat, stuttered and stammered and just plain hummed through verse and chorus.

The sergeant now knows the Marine Hymn—WORD FOR WORD.

Evans Claims He Is Victim of Political Feud

A vehement denial that he considered to defraud the state and a declaration that he is the innocent victim of a political feud were highlights of a statement made from the witness stand in Fulton superior court yesterday by Dr. Hiram W. Evans.

The former imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan has been on trial before Judge Virlyn B. Moore and a jury since May 4 on a charge of conspiring with former Governor Rivers and former State Purchasing Agent O. G. Glover to defraud the state through sales of sand asphalt to the highway department.

Dr. Evans' statement closed the case for the defense, which took up only two days as against 19 consumed by the prosecution. The only rebuttal witness called by the state was former chairman of the high ay board, W. Lint Miller, who denied he had ever offered his resignation to Rivers, as stated by the ex-Governor on the witness stand Wednesday.

Judge Moore set Monday for the beginning of concluding arguments, and it appeared likely that the cause celebre would be in the hands of the jury by Tuesday or Wednesday.

The stocky, gray-haired, 60-year-old doctor, who abandoned dentistry to head the Klan and later became a super-salesman of road-building materials, read a prepared statement. One of his closest listeners was his wife, who has been in court every day of the trial.

"It is not my purpose to evade any issue pertinent to this case," said Evans. "The indictment charges me with entering a conspiracy with ex-Governor Rivers and O. G. Glover for the purpose of cheating and defrauding the state in the sale of sand asphalt to the highway department. No such thing has happened.

Victim of Feud. "I am a victim of a political feud through no act of my own and I am being persecuted on account of my friendship with Governor Rivers, which has existed since 1927. The charge of conspiracy has developed into a side issue and I have been tried practically for everything that could be conjured up in the minds of those who seek to destroy me with the hope that my downfall will result in Governor Rivers' undoing."

The doctor said he was born in Alabama and came to Georgia from Texas following his election as Wizard of the Klan.

"For several years," he went

Senate Probe Of Anti-U-Boat Drive Indicated

By The Associated Press. Intensified Axis submarine warfare adding victims daily in the Atlantic has prompted a Senate Naval Affairs subcommittee to make a preliminary investigation of the Navy's antisubmarine campaign.

With the loss of five more Allied vessels from enemy action—two of them American merchant ships and one a small patrol boat—officially announced by the Navy yesterday—Committee Chairman Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, indicated that Naval officers might be called for a public hearing.

"If we are not entirely satisfied that everything possible is being done to halt these sinkings, we are going into the whole matter in a public hearing," Ellender said.

United Nations shipping losses in the Atlantic rose to an announced 16 in the last five days and the total lost of the North and South American coasts reached 244 since the war's start.

On the other side of the ledger, Allied headquarters in Australia disclosed that an Allied submarine sank an armed transport of 6,000 tons with the probable loss of all troops, said two heavily-loaded supply ships to the bottom and damaged a third in a raid on enemy shipping lanes.

12,000 Believed Lost. It was estimated that the Japanese might have lost as many as 12,000 troops in the sinking and the vessels sunk were said to total 22,000 tons. It was indicated that the Allied submarine, presumably American, made its raid well beyond Australian waters.

At the same time, Japanese submarines sank a small Allied cargo vessel off the east coast of Australia.

The two United States merchant vessels, one medium-sized and the other small, whose sinking was announced today, were torpedoed in the Caribbean area. Survivors from one of them reported that gunners on an Axis submarine turned a deadly spray of bullets upon crewmen abandoning ship, killing three ship's officers and one seaman. Seventeen other members of the crew were rescued. Eight others on a raft had not been reported.

The other vessel was lost in the same locality May 25. The entire crew of 33, treated with more consideration by the submarine crew, escaped safely after a single torpedo sank their ship. They were rescued after 88 hours.

McDonough Man Rescued. Albert J. Chickos, 23, of Millford, Conn., and Harold Crumpley, 21, seaman, of McDonough, Ga., were injured and were brought to Key West by a Navy plane which directed a rescue ship to their mates.

Chickos said he and other survivors, questioned by the sub commander, gave a false statement of their ship's displacement, adding 2,000 tons, and added:

"You should have seen them shout and clap. They must have some kind of contest with the crews of other submarines, for our false information sure made them happy."

The U. S. S. Cythera, a 602-ton former private yacht on patrol in the Atlantic area, was three weeks overdue and presumably lost. She Survivors revealed that a British merchantman sank with a loss of four lives May 27 after a German submarine commanded by an Italian officer torpedoed it. The vessel's crew of 85 included 32 Chinese.

Additional Thrusts At U. S. To Come, Stimson Forewarns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. WASHINGTON, June 4.—Japanese planes attacked tiny Midway Island and its tough Marine Corps garrison again today, while far to the north Dutch Harbor, which was raided by enemy bombers yesterday, reported that all was quiet.

The Navy made public only a bare announcement that the enemy planes struck at the stubbornly held mid-Pacific atoll of Midway at 9 a. m. local time (2:30 p. m. EWT). Details of fighting were lacking.

The Dutch Harbor episode was regarded by Navy leaders here as an effort to test American defenses in the Alaskan area, a feeler operation which might forborne a later assault in force.

3d Attack Unconfirmed. There were two flights of Japanese planes over Dutch Harbor yesterday. The first set fire to warehouses and caused a few casualties, but no bombs were dropped by the second. In addition, the house of commons at Ottawa was told of a report that there was another attack last night. J. J. Ralston, Canadian defense minister, mentioned the report, adding that no details were available.

Apparently Ralston later received information indicating this report was erroneous as he revised his statement to say there had been only one attack, presumably referring to the first flight of planes which dropped bombs.

The Navy Department here said it had received no word of a third flight of enemy planes over the base. During the day, Secretary of War Stimson frankly warned the public that additional thrusts at American territory were "very much to be expected," but would not speculate as to when or where they might come.

Raided Dec. 12, 16. Midway was the object of its first attack on the day of Pearl Harbor. Throughout the two weeks that followed its name appeared frequently in the Navy's communiques.

On December 12 and again on December 16, it was announced that both Midway and Wake Island, which later fell, were "countering the blows of the enemy."

On December 30 the Navy said the "situation in respect to Midway remains unchanged." There had been no attacks, it added, since December 16.

On January 29, two enemy submarines appeared off Midway with the apparent intention of shelling the island.

Repulsed by Artillery. Artillery fire from the island hit one of the subs and turned both of them back with no injury to Midway's personnel.

The last reported attack was on Continued on Page 4, Column 6.

Big Get-Together Held Every Morning in Year

Every day out of the 365 in each passing year, there is a meeting in Atlanta which has been going on for a long, long time. The individuals who make up the gathering vary from time to time, but their objectives are always the same.

They are the buyers and the sellers who convene each morning on the West End pages of the Constitution. All you have to do to join—if you have something you want to sell or buy or rent—is to call Walnut 6565 and make your wishes known. Dues are extremely reasonable.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 4.—(AP)—The Germans were throwing their carefully conserved dive bombers into the Battle of Libya today in an effort to break a deadlock around by wiping out advanced Allied strongholds around Bir Hacheim, southern anchor of the British desert line.

But, according to today's RAF communique, the Stukas found more than their match in British fighting planes. Seven of the Junkers divers were reported shot down, along with an escorting Messerschmitt, in a single interception and dogfight yesterday near Bir Hacheim.

After nine days of top-seeded fighting in which tanks crisscrossed the sun-scorched terrain of Cirenaica in penetrations and flank attacks resembling naval maneuvers, the Allied and Axis land forces halted operations today to rest, repair equipment and prepare for new onslaughts.

There was virtually no fighting. Choking dust clouds cut visibility to zero in some places and tankmen who took the field reported that temperatures in their turrets ranged up to 130 degrees.

One of the latest important actions occurred Tuesday night when British armored forces crossed the enemy out of Tamar, a strong point six miles west of Knightsbridge, a crossroads standing squarely in front of the nine to ten-mile gap which the Germans had cut in the Allies' Ain El Gazala-Bir Hacheim line.

"The enemy is known to have lost at least 14 tanks in this engagement," said today's GHQ communique.

"Another attack on our positions at Bir Hacheim developed yesterday," it added. "German troops and some German tanks approached our positions, but the attack was not pressed home. Our columns in the neighborhood attack the enemy in the rear."

It was assumed that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel would make a final attempt to break through his salient by an even heavier assault on Bir Hacheim and the Allied line running northward from there to Ualeb, on the southern edge of the German-held gap.

Accordingly, the RAF reported today that attacks on enemy concentrations in the Bir Hacheim area.

More of the Same, Says Weatherman More of the kind of weather that makes swimming pools popular is at Atlanta's weather menu for today, Glen J. Ferguson, official forecaster said yesterday, predicting little change in temperature.

Showers, scheduled for yesterday, apparently encountered transportation difficulties. Yesterday's high temperature was 87, while the low reading was 69.

U. S., Chinese Militarists Confer on Plans; Jap Assault on Siberia Seen Impending

Early American Initiative Urged in Chungking.

CHUNGKING, June 4.—(AP)—The ranking United States commanders in southeast Asia gathered here tonight for war conferences with China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek against a background of press appeals for the United States to take the initiative in an immediate land, sea and air offensive against Japan.

Interest in the meeting was heightened by Chinese reports of new Japanese troop concentrations in Manchukuo, and the spread of speculation that the Japanese generals may have decided at last to try the strength of Russia's armies in Siberia.

Chinese circles said such a move would account for Japan's failure to follow up her early successes by attempting invasion of Australia or India.

There was no immediate announcement of the subjects discussed by Chiang and the Americans, Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell and Major General Lewis H. Brereton, who flew here from India, and Brigadier General Claire L. Chennault, who came from Kunming.

Stilwell is Chiang's American chief of staff, the commander of the Chinese fifth and sixth armies, who escaped Japanese entrapment

COUNCIL OF WAR—Portents of a new phase of the Far Eastern warfare were seen yesterday in a meeting of ranking United States commanders with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek at Chungking, as the Chinese press called for America to seize the initiative in an immediate land, sea and air offensive against Japan. Among the conferees were Brigadier General Claire L. Chennault (left), commander of the American Volunteer Group, famed "Flying Tigers," and Madame Chiang, shown here with the generalissimo during a recent visit at Kunming.

Army, Tenants, Sign Armistice; Offices To Be Vacated in Month

BULLETIN.

The United States Army has successfully accomplished the occupation of the Atlanta National Bank building—on a 30-day installment plan.

The lease-holding defenders of the Army's objective were made parties to a treaty, allowing them to move out through the front door in orderly groups, and not be tossed out the windows with their property, according to the terms of the Army ultimatum handed them late Tuesday afternoon.

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

The calm, persuasive logic of United States Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday quieted a small-scale replica of the evacuation of the Germans from Cologne.

Arrayed against each other before Judge Underwood's bench were an impatient group of Army engineers and a distraught group of civilian tenants in the bank building, the latter under orders to find quarters elsewhere—immediately.

Through a maze of involved recitations of wartime laws and decrees and regulations, Judge Underwood pounded his way persistently to the core of the subject.

"Is there a real necessity for all this immediacy?" Special Assistant to the United States Attorney Astor Merritt cited legal rulings to indicate that Judge Underwood had no right to question the Army authorities if they demanded that civilians move out of their quarters to give the Army the elbow room it needs for war work.

Said Judge Underwood: "I am offering no question of the Army's authority. I am questioning the necessity of taking a man out of a dentist's chair and the necessity of ordering that dentist to get out of his offices on a five-minute notice. I don't believe the secretary of war, who is given this authority, would ask the court to approve such procedure."

Later when Lieutenant Colonel H. E. Cox, head of the real estate department of the U. S. Army engineers, was on the stand emphasizing that immediacy did not mean within five minutes, but perhaps three or four days, the judge tossed the poser at him.

"Well, why does the Army come to this court? It has the authority and it has the means to take possession of the building. Why don't you take the building over?"

Colonel Cox explained that the Engineers Corps is not an armed force as established here. It is more of a clerical force.

"But," said the judge, waving his hand toward Fort McPherson, "you have the Army."

And then he told the Army's representatives. "If you feel that court authority is required for these condemnation proceedings, then I'll have to insist in this court that this means

Paulette Gets Mexican Divorce; Says She Wed Chaplin in China

EL PASO, June 4.—(AP)—A Mexican divorce shrouded in as much secrecy as their 1936 wedding in Canton, China, today separated Paulette Goddard and Charles Chaplin.

Incompatibility and separation of more than a year were charged by Miss Goddard and denied by Chaplin, though he consented to award of the decree.

The divorce petition was presented yesterday afternoon. It gave the first public mention of where the two movie figures were married, saying only the ceremony took place "the first week in June, 1936, in Canton, China."

Judge Xavier Rosas Ceballos, of the Mexican civil court at Juarez, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from here, announced this morning a decree would be granted—then made it final at noon, less than 24 hours after the petition was filed by Miss Goddard.

Last week, pleading a "bad cold," she had stopped over here long enough to establish legal residence in Mexico. In the seclusion of her mother's New York apartment she declined to comment.

They first met in 1933 when Miss Goddard was a chorus girl in the ensemble of an Eddie Cantor movie. Shortly afterward he began escorting her to public places and reports of their marriage, or at least betrothal, came recurrently.

First confirmation they were married was given by Chaplin October 15, 1940. At the New York premiere of "The Great Dictator," Chaplin, addressing the audience, said "My wife, Paulette Goddard, and I hope you will enjoy the picture."

The following month Miss Goddard, answering a court action as her father, Joseph R. Levy, described herself as Chaplin's wife. Chaplin was Miss Goddard's second husband. Her first was Edgar James, an eastern lumber dealer. She divorced him after she went to Hollywood in 1932.

Chaplin has been thrice married—to Mildred Harris, once his leading lady, and to Lita Grey, who bore him two sons.

FIRST TRIP SURVIVOR—James L. Nations, 22-year-old Atlanta sailor, was aboard a torpedoed ship on his first trip. It was like an automobile wreck, and he didn't have time to get scared. He's going back.

Atlantan Finds Sinking Like 'Auto Wreck'

James L. Nations Didn't Get Scared Till After Sub Attack.

Being torpedoed too far out in the Gulf of Mexico to swim home may be your idea of a pretty grim and terrifying experience, but a sun-tanned Atlantan, who became a survivor a short time after he became a "torpedoed wreck," "just like an automobile wreck."

"Sure, I was scared," admitted James L. Nations, 22-year-old fireman aboard an American cargo ship which was thrice torpedoed off the coast of Louisiana last month. "But it was just like an automobile wreck—you don't get scared till everything's over."

Nations, who is home visiting his young wife, Mrs. Helen Nations, of 201 Tye street, S. E., between trips, spent nine hours adrift in a lifeboat with 37 other survivors—plenty of time to look on the career of a seafarer and find it good.

First Trip. "It was my first trip, but I was well prepared for it by the maritime service," young Nations said, "and none of us young fellows got scared or panicky when it came time to lower the lifeboats. We had all spent too much time at the Maritime school in St. Petersburg in lifeboat drills. Funny thing, a few of the old hands who have been going to sea for years were a lot more scared than we were."

Nations said he was asleep on the upper deck about 2:30 o'clock, the morning of May 10 when a torpedo hit the tanker. The captain ordered full speed ahead and the limping tanker "made a run for it." An hour and a half later two more torpedoes and 17 to 20 shells struck the tanker and the captain ordered the crew to man the lifeboats and abandon ship.

Saw Sub. "We saw the submarine—a long black thing—after we were in the lifeboats," Nations reported, "but that was too late to shoot at it. We heard some of the men on it talking and one of our men said they were talking German but we couldn't tell what they said."

One member of the tanker's crew was lost, a mate who died of a heart attack in one of the lifeboats. The survivors were sighted at daylight by a plane and picked up a few hours later by a Navy patrol boat.

Nations enlisted at the Maritime Commission headquarters here last January.

Air Arm Gets Another Place On War Staff

General Idwal Edwards, Veteran Pilot, Named Assistant Chief.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Airpower received new recognition in the top councils of the War Department today as a 47-year-old veteran pilot was named assistant chief of staff in charge of organization and training for the entire Army.

Appointment of Brigadier General Idwal H. Edwards to this position was announced by Secretary of War Stimson, who noted that the deputy chief of staff, Major General Joseph T. McNarney, likewise was an aviator.

Already Air Force officers comprise fully half the general staff of approximately 100 members as a result of the War Department's recent reorganization and military circles look for an aviator to be assigned soon to another of the four posts of assistant chief.

Another general staff shift brought the recall from field service of Major General George V. Strong to head the military intelligence branch as an assistant chief of staff. He is a former chief of the war plans division.

In another military air development, Stimson announced the appointment of R. W. Ireland, former traffic manager of United Air Lines, to be chief of the air division of the Army transportation service. The War Department said this was part of an increasing effort to utilize aircraft to "speed the flow of manpower and materials into all phases of the war effort."

Ireland will administer priorities for both cargo and passengers on domestic and overseas commercial air routes, and also the Army ferrying command. Captain Leigh Parker, who has been vice president of the Delta Air Lines, was named his assistant.

General Edwards, as new chief of the general staff's "G-3" division, succeeds Major General Harold R. Bull, who was transferred to head the department and school command of the Army ground forces at Birmingham, Ala.

General Strong succeeds Brigadier General Raymond E. Lee, whose new assignment was undisclosed.

Bean Crop Is Moving To Market in Brooks

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. QUINCY, Ga., June 4.—The Brooks county bean crop is moving to market with no difficulty about trucks so far as the Quinman shipments are concerned, it is stated here. Ten canneries in Georgia are taking all that go from here and six community canneries in the county are canning large quantities.

The price here is 80 cents per hamper net to the farmer and while not high, this is considered profitable. Next week's green butter beans and peas will be coming in. Recent rains helped truck crops in this section.

Elias Nour, Mountain Rescuer, Now in Army

Thrill-seekers who get too far over the steep side of Stone mountain and can't get back in the future must look to someone else besides Elias Nour, famed for several daring rescues of persons precariously perched on the precipice.

Elias, who has participated in 25 rescues from the mountain side during the past 12 years, yesterday was claimed by the Army, while his brother, Tony, who also played an important part in the rescue work, announced that his call to the Army is expected any day.

CCC Drawing Farm Labor, Solon Charges

Tarver Argues, However, Camps Are Needed for Post-War Cushion.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Debating the question of abolishing the Civilian Conservation Corps, the house heard contentions today that it was drawing needed labor from farms and that it should be maintained to help take care of probable postwar unemployment.

The appropriations committee eliminated from a billion-dollar bill to finance the Labor Department, the Social Security Board and related agencies an item of $73,818,000 to provide for 350 CCC camps.

Representative Engel, Republican, Michigan, seeking to forestall efforts to restore the item to the measure, told the chamber:

"This year 64 per cent of the CCC enrollment comes from farms or cities under 2,500 population. These boys ought to stay on the farms where they belong before the farm labor situation is further aggravated."

Engel also asserted that in past years, when the camp enrollments had dropped, the per capita cost had increased, "and no effort has been made to cut the pay rolls of civilian employees."

But Representative Tarver, Democrat, Georgia, argued that the CCC appropriation should be restored "because the camps will be needed to take care of young men returning from the war and unable to find employment."

Representative Dirksen, Republican, Illinois, said that before final action on the bill he would ask abolition of the National Youth Administration and transfer of its defense training and educational activities to the Office of Education in the Federal Security Agency.

Charles Martin Joins Catholics, Is Ready To Walk 'Last Mile'

Baptized Into Church, He Takes First Communion.

By ROLFE EDMONDSON.
Charles Martin, under sentence to die June 12 for the murder of his estranged wife, is now prepared "for the last mile."
Baptized into the Catholic church Wednesday while in his cell at the DeKalb county jail, Martin yesterday received his first communion at an improvised altar set up in the jail by the Rev. Father Bernard Brady, a priest at the Cathedral of Christ the King.
Martin is now awaiting action on a mercy plea, filed with the Governor and the State Prison and Parole Commission. He was arrested early in February, 1941, a few days after his pretty wife, Mrs. Dorothy Bryant Martin, died from stab wounds. The young woman, suffering from a dozen knife wounds, collapsed a few moments after alighting from a South Decatur street car at Woodbine and Wade avenues. She died before medical aid could reach her.

Attired in Best.

For the baptism and the communion services, Martin was attired in his best, a pair of slacks and a sport shirt.
When seen yesterday afternoon in his hot, stuffy cell, he had discarded the shirt, but the crucifix, a gift of Sister Marie de Lourdes, of the Sacred Heart Convent, was still about his neck, fastened there by the priest after having first blessed it.
The rosary, also a gift of Sister Marie, was in the pocket of the slacks.

"Now I am prepared to go down that last mile," Martin said as he discussed his baptism.

"I feel confident that I will not go on June 12. I also have a feeling that I will not have to pay with my life for the deed.
However, if I must, then I am prepared to meet my Maker. I have confessed my sins, received spiritual consolation and today I feel better than I have felt since it all happened. I can now face my Maker."

Was Baptized.
Martin, several years ago, was baptized in the Baptist church, his father and mother both being Baptists.

"For years I thought about the Catholic faith," Martin said in explaining his conversion to that church.

"Since being confined here, I have made a deep study of the Catholic church, and through correspondence with Sister Marie I became convinced that it was the faith for me, and I asked that I be baptized again."

Father Thomas L. Finn, pastor of the Church of St. Thomas More, of Decatur, has spent many hours in the cell with Martin, and was planning to baptize him, but Father Finn was taken ill recently, and is now in an infirmary.

"Yes," Martin said, "I am now prepared. I had rather live, but if it has to be, then I am prepared."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes wash out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

United Nations Sub Destroys 3 Enemy Ships

12,000 Japanese Troops Go Down on Torpedoed Vessel.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 4.—(P)—An Allied submarine, presumably American, on cruise somewhere in the Japanese ship lanes, was credited officially tonight with the destruction or damaging of four enemy ships totaling 29,000 tons—one of them an overloaded troopship which went down with as many as 12,000 Japanese soldiers.
An armed transport of 6,000 tons and two jammed supply ships of 10,000 tons and 6,000 tons, respectively, were torpedoed and sunk, and a 7,000-ton supply ship was badly damaged.

Implying that the better part of a division may have perished aboard the transport, Allied headquarters said all aboard probably were lost and added: "The Japanese are notorious for overloading troop transports. It is known that they put more than 12,000 soldiers on some 6,000-ton ships."

It was indicated that the submarine had made its raid well beyond Australian waters, somewhere on the seas between Japan's numerous southwest Pacific bases.
The news had a tonic effect on Australians, who had been sobered earlier today by Japanese submarine attacks on southeast coastal shipping, hard on the heels of the enemy's midnight submarine stab into Sydney harbor.

It was the first official announcement of Allied naval success in the southwest Pacific area since May 22, when a Japanese cruiser and two cargo vessels were reported sunk by Allied undersea action.

Materialization of the Japanese submarine menace in Australian coastal waters was not unexpected, for the enemy was known to have submarines capable of operating thousands of miles from their bases.

Communications from Allied headquarters disclosed that Japanese submarines had attacked small cargo vessels 35 miles east of Sydney and 225 miles south of that populous east coast city, and that one of the three was sunk. The other two escaped undamaged.

WAR'S GREAT PARADOX.

TOKYO.—(From Japanese Broadcasts)—June 4.—(P)—The diplomatic review, closely connected with the foreign office, said today that Japan was conforming to the spirit of her neutrality pact with Soviet Russia and yet, as Germany's ally, "desires the complete success of German forces against Russia."

La Guardia Asked To Gamble; He Wins—At Least, Others Lose

NEW YORK, June 4.—(P)—When Mayor F. H. LaGuardia received a circular letter asking him if he liked to gamble, he sent representatives—a raiding party—right over.
The circular read: "Do you like to gamble? Come up to our place. We will interest you in a hot game of bridge, gin rummy, etc. We will introduce you to other players. It is the thrill of a dice game, plus stud poker rolled into one."
"Some of our players win hundreds. Many prefer it to betting on horses. Our cut is moderate, according to the size of the game. It is the Riviera of New York."

80 Face Trial Armored Parts In Widespread Flown to Libya Nassau Riots In Past Month

Charges Placed Against Natives Are Not Announced.

NASSAU, Bahamas, June 4.—(P)—Eighty persons will stand trial for participating in widespread riots that cost three lives and extensive property damage here Monday; government authorities disclosed today.

The charges to be placed against the men, all understood to be natives, were not announced.
The riots broke out after unskilled laborers on a big American project started a demonstration against their four shilling (about 80 cents) a day wages. The Duke of Windsor, who hurried back from Washington to occupy his post as royal governor, already had started negotiations in connection with the wage rate, which was fixed by agreement of the British and American governments.

These negotiations continued today. Labor leaders who initiated the demonstration declared they would be perfectly willing to await the outcome of the discussions. They disclaimed responsibility for the rioting and looting which followed the demonstration.

About 1,500 workers on the American project returned to work today, and except for the 8 p. m. to 6 a. m. curfew regulation which remained in effect, life in the colony appeared to be normal.
The Duke has not announced whether he plans to return to the United States, where he left his American-born Duchess, to resume his interrupted business discussions.

GEORGE HEADS MINISTRY.

LONDON, June 4.—(P)—Headed by Major Gwilym George, 47, son of David Lloyd George, Britain's prime minister in the last war, a new ministry of fuel, light and power began functioning today.

Hitler Makes Flying Visit to Finnish Officer

Occasion Is 75th Birthday of Marshal Mannerheim.

HELSINKI, June 4.—(P)—Adolf Hitler flew to Finland from Germany today to deliver personally birthday greetings to Field Marshal Baron Gustaf Mannerheim, and he returned to Germany by air tonight.

Hitler was accompanied both ways by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, the chief of his high command.
Mannerheim was presented a golden grand cross of the German Eagle Order by Hitler.

The Berlin radio in a Helsinki dispatch telling of the Hitler-Mannerheim meeting said it took place "on Finnish soil behind the lines."

Baron Mannerheim, celebrating his 75th birthday, was quoted as "expressing the hope that this year might see the end of Bolshevist barbarism." Hitler, the radio said, "had lengthy conversations" with Marshal Mannerheim, President Risto Ryti and Marshal Keitel which "were held in an extremely friendly atmosphere."

The visit, the radio said, "sprang a great surprise amongst the Finnish people, and only Marshal Mannerheim and President Ryti had been informed of the Fuehrer's visit on the eve of the birthday."

Italian Commands Nazi Submarine

KEY WEST, Fla., June 4.—(P) An Axis freak—a German submarine commanded by an Italian—was reported by survivors of a coal-burning British merchantman, torpedoed in the Caribbean near Cuba May 27 with a loss of four lives.

After the attack, announced today by the Navy, the submarine surfaced and its commander talked with men in four lifeboats.

"That captain was Italian," said Captain Alexander Pope. "He talked fairly good English with a decided Italian accent. The rest of the crew appeared to be German and the submarine was of German design and make."

Engineer Adjudged Guilty in War's First Sedition Trial

CHATTANOOGA, June 4.—(AP)—Violently worded communications, addressed by George W. Christians to military and civil authorities, were adjudged inimical to the interests of the nation's armed forces in wartime by a federal court jury which today found the Chattanooga engineer guilty of sedition on four counts.

Two hours after the jury began its deliberations, it reported to Judge Leslie Darr its verdict, a victory for the government in the first sedition trial of the current war.

The 53-year-old commander of the Crusader White Shirts is subject to imprisonment up to 20 years and a maximum $10,000 fine on each of the four counts of the indictment which charged he had attempted to incite insubordination among members of the armed forces and interfere with their enlistment services.

Sentence Delayed. Judge Darr did not immediately pass sentence, pending a hearing at 9 a. m. Monday on a defense motion for a new trial.

Seated with his wife and attractive daughter, Christians betrayed no outward emotion when the verdict was announced by the jury's spokesman. He turned to his wife with a slight smile, but said nothing.

He was not unprepared, however, for what was to come. A few minutes before the jury reported, it filed into the courtroom to ask Judge Darr whether, in event of conviction, it could recommend mercy. The court ruled that such a recommendation could be made, but that it would have "no legal significance."

As his counsel gave notice of intention to ask a new trial, Christians began emptying his pockets, handing several folded bills to his wife. He was remanded to the custody of the United States marshal and escorted a few minutes later to the Hamilton county jail.

The government's cases centered about its efforts to show that letters and literature sent Army officers and draft officials were intended to damage the morale of members of the armed forces and impede enlistments. The literature,

Doctor and Wife Convicted in Espionage.

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—(AP)—Dr. Hans Helmut Gros, 34, German-educated native of Minneapolis, and his Kansas-born wife, Frances Goellert Gros, 31, were convicted of espionage today.

They are liable to maximum sentences of 20 years each and Gros to five more for conviction on second charge of failing to register as a foreign agent.

Albrecht Rudolf Curt Reuter, 56, indicted with them, was freed yesterday. Federal Judge Ben Harrison said evidence against him was insufficient. He was a Beverly Hills, Cal., art dealer.

Fellow employees at a movie studio testified that Mrs. Gros then Miss Goellert—as early as 1939 spied stories of her romance with Gros with stories of his asserted Nazi activities. They said she alternately feared and loved him, finally married him after once reporting his activities to the sheriff's office.

In his own behalf, Christians testified that much of his "stuff" should be read with "a sense of humor," and repeatedly denied he had ever meant to use force to replace "degenerate" gold standard with his "human effort monetary system" in this country.

The trial began Monday afternoon and moved rapidly through the testimony of a dozen state witnesses and defense testimony from Christians alone.

TIGERS IN THEIR LAIR—One bright spot of the late Burma campaign—and a strong Allied hope in plans for striking at the Japs in China—was the excellent record of the famed "Flying Tigers," whose flight and squadron leaders are shown here studying a map at headquarters.

Outlining aviation tactics second from right (holding sheet of papers) is the commander of the American Volunteer Group, Brigadier General Claire L. Chennault, who yesterday was reported in Chungking conferring with other United States military men.

in Burma, reached India in a hazardous overland trek and said bluntly that "we took a hell of a beating." Bretton is the commander of United States Army air forces in action from Indian bases, and Chennault commands the Flying Tigers, American volunteer group with the Chinese air force, soon to be incorporated in the United States Army.

The influential Chungking newspaper Ta Kung Pao urged in an editorial that the United States assume greater responsibility for conduct of the war, and said "the Allies should launch attacks against Japan by land, sea and air in collaboration with China's war effort."

Although hard pressed on fronts raging from the southeast coast to the mountainous Burma border, Chiang's fighting forces were reported holding grimly and in some places lashing out on their own.

Rail Section at Stake. A Chinese communique on the fight for the walled city of Chui-sien in western Chekiang province said the Japanese lost 2,000 men in a single day of repeated attacks against the point-blank fire of Chinese artillery.

At stake is control of a Chinese-held central section of the Hangchow-Nanchang railroad and one of the closest air base areas from which planes could be sent against Japan.

The Japanese, only three miles from the northern limits of the city, were attempting to close in from three sides, but the Chinese high command said defense forces were counterattacking in some places.

Stiff Defense Offered. To the west, the Chinese were reported holding back Japanese columns attempting to strike into Chekiang province from Nanchang. Japanese spearheads thrust north from the Canton area in Kwangtung province also were reported meeting stiff resistance.

There was no new word from the Hupeh province front along the Yangtze where the Chinese have been fighting their way close to the important river ports of Ichang and Shasi.

From Yunnan province, bordering Burma, Chinese dispatches said fighting still centered around Lungling and Tengyueh, just west of the upper Salween river.

The high command announced that Kengtung, capital of one of the Shan states of northern Burma, had been lost to the Japanese more than a week ago.

before—that young Czechs, trained abroad, had come in numbers by night out of the skies with arms and explosives to strike at the Nazi oppressors.

The minister, Emanuel Moravec, insisted that most of the 'chutists had been rounded up, that therefore no special precautions for Nazi officials had been thought necessary. But then he admitted a few had escaped and that these "sufficed to bring misfortune to us."

Jap Planes Raid Midway

March 10, when, the Navy said, two Japanese seaplanes were intercepted west of the island by American fighter planes based there. One of the Japanese planes was destroyed.

Today's communique said: "Central Pacific area: '1. Information has been received that Midway Island was attacked by Japanese aircraft at approximately 9 a. m. local time (2:30 p. m., E. W. T.), today. '2. No further details are as yet available.'"

Midway Island lies 1,149 miles northwest of Hawaii and 1,653 miles southwest of Dutch Harbor.

Observation Intended. During the day, the Navy said that the second of the two squadrons of Japanese planes which appeared over Dutch Harbor yesterday dropped no bombs. Its purpose obviously was observation aimed at future attacks or intended to determine how much damage the first squadron had done.

That damage, inflicted by four bombers and about 15 fighter planes in a 15-minute attack, was described as "not extensive" and conditions quickly returned to normal.

"The situation at Dutch Harbor is at present quiet," the Navy announced. "Yesterday's first raid by the Japanese appears to have been made primarily to test our defenses. High explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped but, as

Senate Approves Bill Providing Funds For Dependents

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—The senate passed today and sent to the house a measure providing cash allowances for the dependents of enlisted men in the armed forces, but delayed at least until Monday a showdown vote on the question of increasing the pay of buck privates and Navy seamen to $50 monthly.

Evans Claims He Is Victim of Political Feud

On, "I have had no active connection with the Klan. No man alive appreciates and is more grateful than I for the hundreds of true and loyal friends I have made since coming to this wonderful state. It is unfortunate indeed that I should become a victim of a political feud in Georgia with which I had nothing in the world to do."

"Why the present administration should spend $20,000 out of the state treasury and furnish an assistant attorney general and a special assistant to the solicitor general and numerous investigators to prosecute Governor Rivers and me for conspiracy is beyond my understanding."

No Apology.

Speaking of Rivers, he said, "I make no apology for my belief now that he was among the greatest Governors Georgia ever had, but the accusation that I have befriended his sincere friendship for him, besmirched my own honor and that of my family by entering into a conspiracy with him and O. G. Glover to cheat and defraud my state, I do most vehemently deny."

He further denied he had anything whatsoever to do with the ousting of Miller from the chairmanship of the highway board or anything to do with the fixing of bids for highway contracts by any of the companies he represented. Only once, he said, had he even fixed a bid for his own Eastern Construction Company, with the result that he lost more than $12,000. He then explained that the family companies and trade names he used were merely for convenience.

Planned Consolidation.

The family company, with headquarters at Opelika, Ala., was formed for sentimental reasons, he added. He had intended to consolidate all his companies into this one, restore the Evans family homestead near Opelika, retire there, and conduct his business at a point equidistant between the capitals of Alabama and Georgia, he said, hoping to do business in both states.

He declared that whenever one of his companies, or one represented by him got a contract for asphalt from the highway department it was because, and only because, one of those companies made the low bid, under conditions of sharp competition.

"Out of nearly 1,000 transactions disclosed by the records," he said, "it will be seen that in not more than a dozen instances were the companies I represented the only bidders."

He emphatically denied he had received $2,500 from Wiley Tucker, a printing salesman, for collecting from the State Welfare Department a printing bill of some $20,000. Dr. Evans is under indictment in this affair also, as well as on three other charges. He said that he would have to face all these other charges, but urged this jury not to consider any charge but that named in the sand asphalt indictment.

Admits Arrangement.

The defendant also admitted he had had an arrangement with four companies for the sale of emulsified asphalt and this arrangement had been adjudged a monopoly in the federal court. He said he had not been guilty of that charge, but on advice of attorneys had entered a plea of nolo contendere, which was neither an admission or denial of guilt.

"The judge fined me $15,000," said Evans, "and I arranged to pay it and did pay it. Surely you are not going to convict me on that matter when I am not even on trial about it."

Dr. Evans grew eloquent when he described his summer house in south Fulton county, which the state contends was the seat of the conspiracy. He said he did not have it soundproofed, because "the champion hogcaller of Georgia could stand on the roof and scream his best without being heard by the nearest neighbor." Far from being a place to conspire, he said, "it is a place to meditate and think of a better world."

Under the legislation approved by the senate without a record vote any soldier, sailor, marine or coastguardsman receiving $78 monthly or less could assure his wife of at least $50 a month income.

Of this amount, the enlisted man would contribute $22 from his pay while the government would contribute $28. In addition, the government would contribute $12 monthly to the support of the first child and $10 monthly for each additional child.

In another classification, the enlisted man could elect to contribute an additional $5 and the government would provide $15 more for one dependent parent, $25 for two parents and $5 for each additional brother, sister or grandchild. If the soldier had no wife or children, his contribution would be $22 in this classification.

Dependency Clauses.

Linked with these dependency provisions, the measure carried a section authorizing the Selective Service, under the direction of the President, to set up classifications which would determine the order in which registrants would be called to active service.

Senator Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, sponsor of the bill, said this would fix the status of the 65 per cent of registrants he said had been deferred because of dependency. Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, added that it ought to result in deferring married men over 30 years old until all other classes had been called.

During consideration of the family allowance measure, the senate heard angry charges that action on a military pay adjustment bill was being delayed to "chisel a few dollars out of the enlisted man's pay." Senator LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin, served notice he intended to move Monday to discharge the senate conferees who had far refused to accept a house amendment increasing the minimum pay in the armed services to $50 a month, instead of the $42 previously approved by the senate.

LaFollette contended, with the support of Senators Clark, Democrat, Missouri; O'Daniel, Democrat, Texas and others, that the senate had the right to vote directly on this question and ought not to be circumvented by any delaying tactics on the part of its conferees. He said that if the conferees were ordered discharged from consideration of the bill, he would ask the senate to direct immediate acceptance of the $50 figure.

"The only object there can possibly be for holding this bill in conference," he asserted, "is to chisel a few dollars out of the enlisted man's pay in the armed services and I am against that."

This observation brought Senator Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, to his feet to protest that LaFollette was falsely impugning the motives of the five-member conference group.

Johnson complained that the house amendment had "thrown out of kilter" the carefully worked out pay scales in the bill. He added that there were many other benefits in the measure, including insurance, retirement and disability payments.

Wenner Gren's Yacht Reported 'Taken Over'

MEXICO CITY, June 4.—(AP)—Dispatches from the gulf port of Vera Cruz reported today without official confirmation that the Southern Cross, luxurious yacht of the Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner Gren, now living in Mexico, was taken over by the Mexican navy as an auxiliary vessel.

Wenner Gren, whose name is on the United States blacklist of persons having business dealings with the Axis, had left his yacht at Vera Cruz for months; first under Panamanian registry, then under Mexican.

The dispatches varied as to whether the yacht was purchased by the navy or given outright by Wenner Gren.

Russell Advocates Paying State Losses Due To Gas Ration

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—A group of house members today called a meeting to consider ways of blocking or delaying nation-wide gasoline rationing, while in the senate a suggestion was advanced that the states might justifiably ask that their revenue losses due to rationing be made good out of the national Treasury.

Representatives Scrugham, Democrat, Nevada; Houston, Democrat, Kansas; and Johnson, Democrat, Oklahoma, made known that all interested members of the house had been invited to meet at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow to discuss the gasoline situation.

Houston first told reporters the purpose was to plan some kind of action to keep nation-wide gasoline rationing from becoming effective. He later amended this to say an effort would be made to block it at least pending further hearings on the subject.

Gasoline is now rationed in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia because supplies are short due to transportation difficulties. However, some officials of war agencies have indicated favor for nation-wide rationing in order to conserve tires. The final decision is up to President Roosevelt.

Senator Russell, Democrat, Georgia, whose state is one of those rationed, suggested that the states might ask the federal government to make good their lost revenue.

(Most of the states have a gasoline tax. Net revenues from this source in 1940, the latest year for which figures are available, were $870,692,000 for the country as a whole and $347,443,000 for the states now under rationing.) Russell said that he will co-sponsor such a reimbursement measure with Senator Maybank, of South Carolina.

"Any form of regional rationing is undemocratic," Russell told the senate. "Any sacrifice entailed by lack of transportation should be borne equally by all the nation."

Russell was one of the few senators who expressed any favor at all for blanketing the rest of the nation under the system. Most members who participated in a three-hour debate took the stand that rationing the nation's plentiful supply of motor fuel was a very indirect method of approaching the problem of saving rubber.

Likewise, senator after senator declared that conflicting statements by administrative officials concerning the rubber shortage and the necessity of gasoline rationing were confusing the people, and that any extension of rationing should be preceded by public hearings and full explanations of the need.

Senator Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, introduced a bill which would require the price administrator, when contemplating gasoline rationing in a state where it was not in effect last June 1, to hold public hearings on the availability of motor fuel, transportation facilities, the necessity for conserving tires, the extent to which scrap rubber was being collected and reclaimed, and the need for and effect of the proposed rationing.

Boards Given Power To Kill Ration Cards

Authorized To Question Holders in 'X' Classifications.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—In a new effort to cut down nonessential automobile travel along the eastern seaboard, the Office of Price Administration tonight gave local rationing boards specific power to call in holders of the unlimited "X" gasoline cards for questioning.

Local boards were given authority to rescind any "X" card used illegally, or obtained wrongfully, and to withhold any present or future gasoline ration cards from persons failing to answer questions. Similar powers were granted the board with regard to other cards calling for more than the minimum ration of gas, but the order appeared aimed primarily at X-cards. Any local board action may be appealed to the OPA state director.

Outlines Procedure. Simultaneously, OPA made it plain that motorists seeking supplemental ration cards under a permanent program expected to be introduced before July 15, will be required to prove either that they have joined car-sharing or pooling groups or that it is impossible for them to do so.

"It will not be sufficient for motorists applying for more than the basic ration merely to state that they transport other people to work," said Joel Dean, chief of the OPA fuel rationing branch. He explained they would have to list the name and place of occupation of each person transported and obtain the person's signature.

"If the various members of the club plan to rotate the use of their cars, an application will be required for each car," he added. "Each application will show the specific number of miles that club members plan to use the car represented by that application. This will have the effect of giving each car owner in the pool a supplemental ration for his share of the total mileage to be driven."

No More "X" Cards.

"If there are less than three persons, in addition to the driver, in the club, the applicant will be required to state the specific reason. He will have to show that he has no fixed place of work, that he must travel at unusual, or irregular hours, that he has been unable to find passengers, or that for any other reason it is impossible, or impractical, for him to form a club of four members."

Under the new permanent gasoline program, which, if nationwide, may mean slightly under four gallons of gasoline available weekly for "nonessential" motorists, "A" cards will be issued to all car owners. Those believing that the "A" book, with its 48 coupons is insufficient for their vocational needs may apply for the supplemental or "B" and "C" books. The present "X" cards will be abolished.

some discussion. I am trying to meet the necessities on both sides." The colonel subsided, and from then on the discussion moved toward a quick and effective compromise.

Judge Underwood asked all tenants who had been given notice of the condemnation proceedings before Tuesday to raise their hands. Two tenants, of the score or more gathered there, raised their hands—one timidly, as he explained:

"I had been notified secretly last month, your honor," he said. "But I was told I mustn't breathe a word about it to anyone else."

The other tenant had been told on Tuesday morning, before the papers were served Tuesday afternoon.

When the engineers first moved into the bank building, a few months ago, the court was told, one dentist had to labor three weeks getting himself moved from an upper floor in the building to a lower floor.

"Now they want me to get out of the building and move somewhere else in the city on a three or four-day notice," he pleaded.

Dentists and doctors who have been established in the old office building for years argued their inability to get new telephones or the necessary plumbing for medical or dental offices.

Intercession Offered. "We shall intercede for you with WPB," offered one of the Army men.

The doctors and dentists shrugged their shoulders at the thought of intercession with WPB, a hard-boiled agency whose vocabulary has been boiled down to a simple, two-letter word, meaning "not a chance."

Judge Underwood wondered why an order issued in Washington May 26 was not delivered to tenants in the building until last Tuesday.

"Your honor," said Colonel Cox,

WILL ATTEND CONFERENCE—Two prominent national realty board officers who will be in Atlanta to take part in a program tomorrow, arranged for the presidents and secretaries of real estate boards in the southeast. They are Herbert U. Nelson (left), executive vice president of the national body, and Kenneth S. Keyes, of Miami, Fla., regional vice president, who will preside.

"We are not authorized to speak for our superiors."

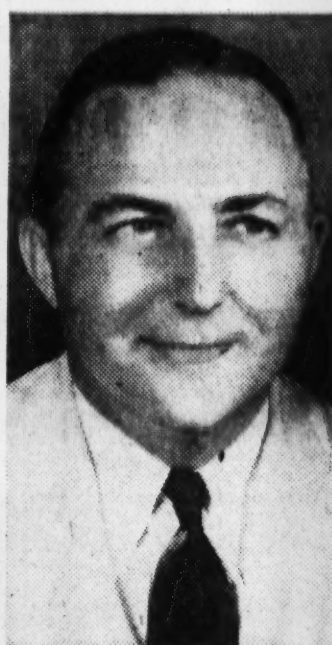

In arguing the plight of the cramped engineering forces, now on floors 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 of the building, Colonel Cox said:

"You know, your honor, statistics show that normal space requirement for each employee is 60 square feet."

Unusual Times.

The judge responded: "It's all right to strive for the ideal, Colonel, but these are unusual times."

At the end of the open debate, the judge, with the Army men at his elbow worked out the agreement:

Plain, ordinary commerce shall be out of the building in a week.

Lawyers and their libraries shall be out in 15 days.

Doctors and dentists shall be out in 30 days.

"The court wants to thank everyone," said the judge, "for his fine spirit of co-operation in this case."

The civilian tenants wandered out, wondering where they could get offices in a town where space is at a premium.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Selective Service headquarters, classifying the electric power industry as essential to the war effort, today listed 86 classes of its employees who should be considered for deferment from Army service.

Shortages of qualified personnel to fill these occupations should be taken into consideration by local boards, national headquarters said, in handling individual requests for deferment.

State To Soon Rest in Trial Of Mrs. Thomas

Woman's Defense May Be Based Entirely on Statement to Jury.

CLARKESVILLE, Ga., June 4.—(AP)—Dr. Herman Jones, of the Oglethorpe University medical school at Atlanta, testified today an autopsy on the body of William D. Baker disclosed arsenic in his stomach and intestines in sufficient quantity to produce death.

Dr. Jones was a state witness in the trial of Mrs. Flossie Thomas, 51-year-old former school teacher, accused of killing Baker. Solicitor General G. Fred Kelley said out of court that the state's theory was that Mrs. Thomas was jealous over the loss of her husband's affections to Mrs. Baker and that she killed Baker and attempted to make it appear that Mrs. Baker had killed him.

The principal witness today was Gracie Baker, the dead man's daughter, who testified that Mrs. Thomas had given her father several "headache powders" and that he became "violently ill."

The 16-year-old girl spoke calmly, as she looked directly at the defendant, Mrs. Thomas. Kelley said he expected to soon complete the state's case, after which the defense will present its case.

It was stated today that Mrs. Baker might base her entire defense upon her own sworn statement to the jury.

The trial of Mrs. Thomas, accused of poisoning Baker last year, opened yesterday, the first day being taken up in selecting a jury.

Mrs. Thomas was indicted by the Habersham county grand jury last March on a charge that she poisoned Baker, thus unfolding a story of the alleged battle for the love of two women—Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Baker—for Mrs. Thomas' husband, F. Dennis Thomas.

A partially burned letter was found last fall purporting to give instructions on how to administer poison doses. The letter was found soon after Baker's death last November, which resulted in Baker's body being exhumed and examined for poison traces.

Solicitor Kelley is representing the state and J. O. Ewing, Atlanta attorney, is representing Mrs. Thomas.

The case has attracted wide attention in this section.

U. S. Congress Votes War on Axis Satellites

Quezon Urges Senate To 'Remember the Philippines.'

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—As fast as the roll could be called, the senate voted unanimously today to declare war against Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania, satellites of Nazi Germany.

The house had taken similar action yesterday, and all that remains to complete the record is for President Roosevelt to sign the war resolution. He had urged adoption of the resolutions on the ground that the three nations, who declared war against the United States last December, were preparing to expand their hostile activities.

The senate votes were 67-0 on Bulgaria, 71-0 on Hungary, and 74-0 on Rumania.

Galleries were packed for the double attraction of congress formally hovering war, however perfunctory, and the personal appearance of Manuel L. Quezon, President of the Philippines, who later mounted the rostrum amid an ovation and urged the American people to adopt "still another slogan of war—'Remember the Philippines.'"

Quezon said he was not in this country to ask for an immediate drive against the Japanese invader in his homeland, but pleaded that Americans always have in mind "that only in the Philippines has your flag been hauled down and replaced by the flag of the Rising Sun."

Local Actions Are Reported On Soviet Front

No Indication of General Fighting Given in Communiqué.

MOSCOW, Friday, June 5.—(AP)—The Soviet command reported early today a resumption of fighting and air force activity on some sectors of the front.

Actions affixed were described as local, however, and there still was no indication of general fighting anywhere.

"During June 4," said the communiqué, "engagements of local importance were fought in some sectors of the front, with active air operations."

"During June 3 units of our air force on various sectors of the front destroyed or damaged 115 motor vehicles with troops and war materials, 40 cars with ammunition, mine fields, and anti-aircraft guns, eight anti-aircraft machinegun posts, and four searchlights, blew up four ammunition dumps, damaged two railway stations, and dispersed and partly annihilated up to six companies of enemy infantry."

The mid-day communiqué yesterday said 300 Germans were killed on the central front in a local Nazi attack, and that 12 more German planes had been shot down on the same front.

Jap Sub Is Raised In Sydney Harbor

SYDNEY, Australia, June 4.—(AP)—One of the small Japanese submarines which unsuccessfully attacked Sydney harbor Sunday was raised partly today, and a naval officer said it was larger than the two-man midgets which were used in the Pearl Harbor raid of December 7.

This submarine probably carried six crewmen and was between 50 and 60 feet long compared to the 41-foot craft sunk and later salvaged at Pearl Harbor.

Japan's first class submarines are divided into four groups ranging from 250 to 356 feet, as listed in Jane's fighting ships. The two-man type discovered at Pearl Harbor had a 5-foot beam, a cruising radius of approximately 200 miles at low speed after being launched from a mother ship, and carried two 18-inch torpedoes as compared with the 21-inch standard used in the United States Navy.

Farmers Are Urged To Watch Livestock

ATHENS, Ga., June 4.—(AP)—Declaring that many horses and mules die in Georgia annually from overheating, W. S. Rice, Agricultural Extension Service livestock specialist, urged farmers today to watch their workstock carefully to prevent losses.

He suggested periodic rests for the animals during the day and plenty of water to drink. The heaviest feed, he said, should be given at night and the animals also given the run of a lot or pasture during the night.

When a work animal has a sunstroke or becomes overheated, Rice advised that it be placed in the shade and cold water applied on the head and spine. He added that a half ounce of carbonate of ammonia in one pint of water may be given the animal as a stimulant. He also advised that a veterinarian be called as quickly as possible.

Students at Quitman Purchase War Stamps

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. QUITMAN, Ga., June 4.—The High school band this morning marched to the post office at the head of a procession of the entire High school student body to buy war stamps and then the band marched another block to the bus station to play patriotic airs as townspeople gathered to bid 20 young men goodbye on their way to the Army.

The local selective service board has been sending off about 30 each month and announces today that the number will be stepped up to 45. With a population of 20,000 and with 4,710 men enrolled, the county has nearly one-fourth its total population registered for service. There are actually over 400 young men already in the Army.

In the registration of men between ages 21 to 35 there were 2,340 enrolled; only 890 between ages 35 to 45 registered and in the last registration, which included men from 45 to 65, there were 1,500.

Thunder Before Storm

Out of the almost constant mist which mix with the smoke and fumes from growling volcanoes on the Aleutian chain, swept Japanese raiders to smash at Dutch Harbor, our Alaskan port where fevered efforts have been going on to construct a naval and submarine base. This was Wednesday.

One may but speculate.

It could be a sign of weakness. Japan has not yet been able to attack the United States mainland in retaliation for the successful United States raid on Japan's major cities.

Japan did not care to risk the large naval task force necessary for such an attack. That could be one assumption.

The other would be that Japan now has begun the preliminary thunders of war against all our Pacific bases in an effort to smash any possible points of assistance for Russia when Japan launches her attack against Siberia. Two raids against one objective would indicate the Japanese were serious in their intent to do real damage.

Yesterday's attack on Midway fits into the general pattern, the island being a base from which Japan can be attacked and which screens the operations of our own fleet.

Our Navy cannot as yet let us have all details. It is inconceivable we did not do some real damage. We had some defenses there, planes, antiaircraft guns and ships. It is possible we may have done some damage to the carrier. Or, if our own defenses were inadequate, we may have suffered severe losses. That is for the future.

Japan cannot well strike at Siberia as long as we are growing stronger and stronger in Alaska.

Unalaska had its first new settlers in 1765 when two Russians and a small party of adventurers arrived on the island to remain for two years. The island is one of the Aleutians and is volcanic in origin. From Mount Makushin rises the constant smoke and ash of an active volcano which restricts its activity to an occasional small flow of lava. Copper and iron are to be found in quantity.

The Aleutians stretch nearly 1,600 from east to west, separating the sea of Kamchatka from the Pacific. All are volcanic. Several have active volcanoes. There is not much vegetation. On the 80 islands about 5,000 persons fish and trap, grow potatoes and other vegetables in the few small fertile valleys.

There is an almost constant mist about the islands. There is hardly a day without rain save for a few weeks in May and June. There is much wind. The seas are heavy.

The islands look good on the map as bases. They aren't. Dutch Harbor and at least one other port on Unalaska are the best bases. The long point of the Aleutians is not the dagger it appears.

The two quick raids may have been a sign of weakness. Or the beginning of the Siberian campaign.

The next few hours or days will tell.

What Can I Do?

A notice on the front page of the Walker County Messenger is an answer to the question often heard in cities large and small, "What can I do?" to help win the war.

The report said that the Junior Woman's Club had announced a "Well-Baby Clinic" at which mothers were asked to present all children of pre-school age.

Public health, and especially the health of children, which are the real riches of a nation, is most important at any time. In time of war they take on added importance.

There is, truthfully, not a great deal the average person can do in actual war work. The point is that most of the work of winning the war is done in fields other than those of warfare. The Junior Woman's Club, of LaFayette and Walker counties, have given a fine illustration of "What Can I Do?"

Though Dynasties Pass

Georgia's county newspapers report that crops are good; there is much grain and the prospects for summer crops and fruits are excellent.

There has been enough moisture and sun and unless the summer brings a severe drought which extends into the fall there will be enough food for us and our allies.

Next year may mean a different story. Farm organizations and farmers wince at what might happen should a great drought strike the west and burn up the grass lands; they shiver at what might result should the main food crops fail.

War is dependent on so many things, but it is almost an axiom that the nation or group of nations with full stomachs usually win the wars. Superiority in air and sea and on land must be backed by superiority in food.

The poets and the writers of prose who write of the earth as the source of all strength are not far wrong. Thomas Hardy, the poet, wrote of the eternal values of earth when he wrote:

"Only a man harrowing clouds
In a slow, silent walk
With an old horse that stumbles and nods
Half asleep, as they stalk."

Only thin smoke without flame
From the heaps of couch grass;
Yet this will go onward the same
Though dynasties pass."

Hitler will come and go. Mussolini will become a by-word and jest. The peoples of earth will pass through travail and days that are dark and days that are glorious.

Still will remain the essential earth and what man can grow on it. The tractors will replace some of the old horses and mules. But the idea remains the same. All this will go onward the same, though dynasties pass.

Georgia's fields and men and horses and mules are playing a great part in the war. Food must back the guns.

Federal Prison Patriots

Atlanta's federal penitentiary keeps getting in the news in a manner which is gratifying. They supply good news.

Not many weeks ago they were visited by high federal officials and awarded a special citation for their excellent work in the production of war goods.

A high degree of patriotism is evidenced by the writings in the publications and by their actual production. Now they propose to give blood to the Red Cross which will be reduced to plasma and sent to the Army for use in treatment of wounded men needing blood plasma.

Great as has been our progress in the conduct of our penal institutions, we are reminded now and then by the very humanities of the men within the walls, that we have failed in the chief end of imprisonment—rehabilitation. These men in the Atlanta federal prison are making us more aware of that failure and should supply some impetus to the job of getting started on that task.

Good for Helen!

We see that Miss Helen Schukraft, an Atlanta student, has set a perfect attendance record in 17 years of schooling in Atlanta's schools. In all those years she was never tardy or absent. As might be expected, she gives credit where credit is due—to her mother. It was Mrs. Edgar Schukraft who got her up, saw that she had breakfast and her lessons, and sent her off to school. Miss Schukraft has led a busy life, studying dancing, making good grades and taking a healthy interest in life. We wish for Miss Schukraft many fine things and opportunities in life, confident in the knowledge she will not be late for any that is presented.

23,000,000 Lunches

Harry Harmon reports that the WPA-staffed lunchrooms in the state have served warm, balanced lunches to 4,064 children each month in Fulton county and that throughout the state during the entire year there were served 23,000,000 hot lunches. We built fine buildings long ago. Then we found out that many of the children were too hungry or too badly nourished to study or be taught. The lunches have done much to aid. They offer tangible proof of their value in healthier children and brighter minds. Don't let politics cut out the hot school lunch.

Georgia Editors Say:

HELPLESS NEIGHBORS
(The Fitzgerald Herald.)

One of the most reassuring things in these perilous times is the loyal co-operation of Mexico with the United States. Mexico is in no sense a "vassal" of this country, but a fully independent neighbor treated with complete respect. This decent attitude on the part of our government and people, pursued until it is not a mere transient whim but a settled policy, has had the natural result. The Mexican government and people, under President Avila Camacho, now trust and co-operate with the United States more closely than ever before.

The full fruit of this confidence is seen in the association of Mexico with this country in the big war. And not of Mexico alone, but of the great republic of Brazil and nearly all the other Latin-American republics. Argentina, which has always been as much European as American, still goes her own way, but apparently because of boss rule rather than the freedom of its people, and it would not be very surprising if that situation were changed before long.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

EARLY PEACE?

WASHINGTON, June 4.—If the Russians hold out, and the British, aided by our own air force which is yet to come into play, are able to carry on a sustained systematic bombing of German cities such as marked the destruction of Cologne and Essen during the past few days, there is still more than an outside chance that this war may be brought to an end before 1942 passes into history.

Six months or a year ago the military experts said it couldn't be done. They were practically united in the belief that you couldn't bomb a highly organized nation into defeat. The intense German raids on England back in 1940 and early in 1941 were cited as proof.

But the experts are not always right. Most of them gave the Russians only six weeks to three months against the Germans, some of our own highest military heads included. Many of them contended up until a short time ago that 500 planes were as much as could be put into the air on a continuous mission at one time. The British used 1,250 against Cologne, 1,000 against Essen.

Now we have the word of our own air force officials that this number will be doubled and high quarters that we may even employ 4,000 or 5,000 bombers on a single mission in the future.

The experts were also wrong about the mass production of planes. They said it couldn't be done, that too many intricate operations were involved. Henry Ford has disproved that in his giant Willow Run factory. Others are doing likewise. We will be flying them off the assembly lines just as automobiles were turned out ready for the road.

And so the experts may be wrong about the ability of the Allies to bomb Germany into defeat the same as they were about Russia standing up and the other technical theories that didn't work out in actual practice.

BERLIN ON LIST

The human values involved don't make sense with any other answer. Since the British adopted their all-out scale of bombing attacks, first Lubeck and Rostock were destroyed. Now Cologne and Essen, scene of the great Krupp works, have been added to the list. Next it will be Mannheim, Bremen, Hamburg and Kiel. Finally it will be Berlin itself.

The New York Times quoted neutral sources abroad with the statement that 20,000 Germans were killed in the Cologne raid, 54,000 injured. Three-fourths of a city the size of Baltimore or Washington was wiped out—made uninhabitable. Thousands upon thousands of the residents were evacuated to other regions—an evacuation which is reported to have been completed.

Germany can't take sustained punishment of that kind. Students of racial temperaments say it isn't their make-up. They folded up in the last war while their army was still intact and they may do it again.

It would all seem to depend on our ability to keep up the pressure, plus the capacity of the Russians to keep the Germans engaged up to their necks on the eastern front. What the British have accomplished so far has been undertaken with their own men and in the Cologne and Essen raids, we are told, we turn loose the air force and planes we have been developing over the past year the blow should be at least double. General Arnold, chief of our air force, now in London, sees far bigger raids than anything yet attempted.

Speculation is a dangerous thing in war because often the unpredictable happens. But there is room for sound speculation over the meaning behind the failure of the Germans to launch a single major air attack on England since Hitler invaded Russia.

PUNY RETALIATION After the devastating assault on Cologne—a raid that should have been more provocative than anything that has yet happened to Hitler—the Germans, although professing to be outraged over the debacle, sent the puniest kind of a retaliatory air mission against Canterbury. Only about 50 planes were dispatched to answer the 1,250-plane Cologne attack.

Hitler, with all of his past boastful ravings about dropping 10 tons of bombs on British cities for every one falling on German soil, would have made a better answer than that, had he been able, it seems.

It raises some question of doubt as to the real strength of the vaunted German air power. It suggests the possibility that the Nazis haven't enough planes to divide between two fronts. They have their hands full with the Russians. The Soviets must have destroyed thousands of their aircraft during the past year's fighting.

Whatever the answer, it must be assumed that it will be soon forthcoming. The Germans can't afford to stand by and witness the destruction of their main cities—the centers of their industrial production so vitally needed for prosecuting the war—without taking retaliatory measures.

If they haven't the force for meeting the coming combined British and American air attack, that is all the more reason for us pressing the fight to the finish. Evidently we are determined to do just that. The presence of General Arnold and Admiral Towers in London may be eloquent evidence on the subject.

In any event, the next three months will tell the tale. It is not beyond the realm of possibility that we may blast them into submission before the end of the year rolls around, though none of our officials is willing to voice openly any such optimistic conclusion at this time.

Lonely Roads.

There aren't so many automobiles on the highways since times became so precious and gasoline rationing began.

I noticed this condition particularly on the train, last Sunday, traveling north in Georgia, through Tennessee and into Virginia. Highways ran within view of the train windows for many miles and a motor vehicle was in a sort of way, a rarity. Travel mile after mile without seeing any at all. Then, perhaps, two. A sedan and a truck.

More in Tennessee, where there is no gas rationing, but even here the difference with normal times is marked. Tire shortage, I suppose.

In the Virginia county where I went they have no gasoline rationing as yet. And the street of the little town was pretty well filled with autos. Too many big freight trucks for comfort. They passed the hotel where I tried to sleep all night long. It was on a grade and I listened, hour after hour, to heavy trucks changing into low gear and grinding and screaming their way up that hill.

My host said he hadn't, as yet, given enough serious thought to the situation. Knew he could get no tires, but he had an almost new car and there were many thousands of miles in his present tires, yet.

Passed a truck with a tire blown out beside the street, though, and our driver commented with commiseration on the misfortune.

"Hungry Mother" Park.

They took me to a Virginia state park that is very beautiful. Set on a crystal clear lake, with white sand beach and summer cottages. And, a few miles away, glorious vistas from high spots on the mountains.

They call it "Hungry Mother" park; and here is the legend of the name.

In pioneer days a band of roving Indians fell upon a pioneer settlement in the next valley, beyond the hills. They killed all the white people save one woman and her two-year-old son. This woman managed to escape and, with a little parched corn for food, made her way, over the hills, to the other valley.

They found her there, dead, lying beside the creek. Her little boy was sitting beside the body, trying to attract her attention as he cried, "I'm hungry, mother. Hungry mother!"

So they called it "Hungry Mother" creek and when they built a dam across the creek and made a lake and then created a park, they called it "Hungry Mother" park.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Amazing Progress

NEW YORK, June 4.—Let the generals, the admirals and the statesmen say where the enemy is to be met and how that will be done, but any civilian can see that, from a dawdling started fall of 1940, the people of the United States, under a strong government, have made amazing progress toward the development of the mighty power of his peaceful nation to make war when provoked. The great south and southwest is a growing swarm of soldiers. In areas of thousands of miles warplanes of all the land-based military types, from biplanes to enormous bombers, snarl across the sky. Military camps—so many that few of our own people ever heard of them—all have risen in remote places, where there is room to spare for housing and training, and factories for the production of explosives, planes and shell suddenly are where nothing was before. All this is in addition to the driving development which has taken place in the old, established industrial centers of New England and the other eastern states, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and the mighty effort in the shipyards.

It is a picture of the United States turned to war almost as wholly as Germany, and as heartening as the quick creation of these soldier cities and aviation centers and the industrial plants to keep them armed and flying is the change in the appearance and bearing, the "morale" of these young men. They have the look of soldiers now and Hitler himself never saw, even in his personal corps so aptly named his Black Guards, the equal of the American cavalry soldiers in El Paso.

Maudlin Mothering

Eighteen months ago, 15 months ago, the American soldier was the subject of much maudlin mothering. His officers gentled him and neither he nor they understood why they were suddenly called away from civil life, for few quite believed that their mission was merely to "train" for a year and then go home, and the international situation of the hour was such that their government couldn't admit the truth.

They soldiered without rifles and used laundry wagons for tanks and gaspings mounted on old buggy wheels for artillery with a shamed sergeant yelling "wham" to simulate the sound of guns. They were not at war and they had nothing with which to fight a war, and when a filthy sulker at Fort Bragg spat on the floor in barracks and in the mess a young officer was denounced in congress for persecuting this "boy" with a court-martial.

Since Pearl Harbor, anyway, if not since some time before, there has been no misunderstanding, no underestimating of the reasons why the Army is in the field and growing and, far from imparting the disposition of the soldier, the realization that he is a fighter has made a fighter of him. Meanwhile his weapons have been coming along and he sees the vehicles and planes on every hand which assure him that he is not a Boy Scout of camping and making fire by chafing sticks but as much a soldier as the faceless men of Adolf Hitler. The first draftees went to their stations in the mood of the half-hearted Frenchmen who were only barely willing and not enthusiastic and, for a long time, drugged at their training with some feeling that their country wouldn't know how to create enough of the tools for a first-class war.

Better Than AEF

Army who soldiered in France hold this Army to be much superior to the AEF in many ways and inferior only in experience to the war-tested troops of that time. Many mistakes of those days have been avoided and the human relationships between officers and the ranks would scandalize old, retired colonels and brigadiers of a period when the man with a commission need not only authority to enforce his commands but pomp, rudeness and ceremony to impress the soldier with his superiority. Moreover, this change has been wrought without the use of political commissars or shoo-fies to spy on the soldiers and snitch to some secret bureau.

No American Army ever excelled this one in intelligence, fitness and spirit and Hitler's troops had no more on the ball up to the time when they overwhelmed much weaker forces and became, in a few days, battle-tried veterans.

Fortunately, again, others are holding the line while the country is ready, but the effort, industrial as well as military, is vastly bigger and better as the whole power of the nation goes to war. Two years ago Hitler didn't think the United States could do it and even today most Americans have no idea how mistaken he was.

As he counts up the day's profits on some good, crowded main-line run.

Still, I wouldn't care for his job. Too hard and too precarious.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, June 5, 1917:

"Washington, June 4.—Prohibitive taxes upon all forms of beverage liquors incorporated in the tax bill approved by the senate finance committee, practically ban all liquor for the duration of the war."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Sunday, June 5, 1892:

"Skirt dancing is only dislodge posing and you may learn it at home."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MC GILL

I ALMOST HISSSED This fellow came in and asked if anything happened at the Harvard Institute of War Problems except going to lectures and taking part in discussions.

I told him there wasn't much. We went to lectures at 9:15 each morning; took time out for lunch, resumed at 2:15 and left at 5:30 in the afternoon, returning at 7 o'clock and finally being dismissed at about 11 p. m.

And then I remembered. There was something.

I almost hissed a Memorial Day parade in Concord, Mass.

It came about in this fashion. We did have holidays on Saturdays and Sundays. On Sunday a group of us drove to Concord. As we drove into that neat, clean, handsome little city, a parade was forming. It was the start of Memorial Week. Our car was halted. We waited patiently.

The band leader looked around. The Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the air raid wardens, the first aid and all the other groups, including four Spanish War veterans, all of whom looked like the late Cal Coolidge, were in line.

The leader raised his baton. He brought it down.

"Hurrah, hurrah, we'll sing the jubilee."

While we go marching through Georgia . . .

I reached for the door to step out and ask those Yankees why they always are stirring up trouble about that civil war. We've forgot it down in the south, but up there they were busy stirring up old emotions. But I didn't. It was a very nice parade and the tune of "Marching Through Georgia" is a stirring one. Also the New Englanders are such fine people.

I did not hiss because I feared that even the esteemed chief justice of Georgia, Mr. Charles S. Reid, might not be able to demur me out of a hiss at a Memorial Day parade in New England.

Anyhow, I couldn't do it. I was on my way to see the home of the man for whom I was named—Ralph W. Emerson. And so, in a way, Concord had a sort of home-town tie for me. I couldn't feel but kindly toward Ralph Emerson's home town.

That was one thing that happened.

BATTLE GROUNDS

I always feel like howling when I come to the battle ground at Concord and at Lexington.

We went again to the battle field at Concord where the English troops in their scarlet coats were drawn up on one side of the small stream with the farmers on the other.

We saw the tomb of the English soldiers, come from far across the sea to uphold an empire. We read the inscription on the stone.

It was a peaceful, pastoral sort of afternoon. A great many years had passed since the farmers had stood their ground and fired at the red-coated soldiers.

The story ran on at Lexington. There on the quiet, serene green the man from the farms and the town, even from the nearby houses, had formed a line and been fired on by the British. No one knows who fired the first shot. In the excitement of the time no one could be sure. It is believed even it came from someone not in either line.

There the words were spoken: "Stand firm, don't fire unless fired upon. But if they mean to have a war let it begin here."

You could imagine that day, the tense square, the women still with terror in the houses about the common, the citizen army of a handful of men, tense and bitter with anger.

The English fired and killed some of them. One dragged his way across the common to his doorstep and died there at his wife's feet.

Some fell on the green.

The English went marching off to Concord.

All that day men rode and the news spread. Farmers fired at the marching column of British troops from behind rock walls. It was not a pleasant journey.

We saw—and thought—that on Sunday.

WALDEN POND

We went also to Walden pond. We trudged around it, finding the stone which marks the spot where Henry Thoreau had his hut.

He lived there two years in solitude, writing that man and nations should live simply and not try to accumulate useless possessions. He believed in simple food, simple clothing, simple houses, simple furniture.

We did go to Marblehead and stand on the point where the old earthen fort was built in 1812 and watched the sun on the waves of Massachusetts bay. We did see the decks on the quaint old sea captains' houses.

We did go to Salem and go through "The House of the Seven Gables," thinking of Nathaniel Hawthorne and of how the town disliked him and would not speak to him for writing "The Scarlet Letter."

We saw the old house where the pitiful old women and men were kept prisoners, charged with being witches. (John Wesley was very angry when the hanging of witches was halted.) They would have kept on hanging them there at Salem, or pressing a few to death, had the nervous, vicious little girls who were pointing out the witches, not named the governor's wife as a witch. Of course, that would never do. So they stopped the business and the girls said they were sorry.

We saw the docks where the whalers and the clipper ships used to land. And the privateers of 1812. One could dream there, too. That was about all—except the lectures.

I also reaffirmed an old belief—the New Englanders are very much like southerners.

I guess that's why I like them so much.

A Fighter Is Lost if He Thinks It

Play While the Other Plans

To Kill

By ROBERT QUILLEN

Those who expect or hope for an early ending of the war do not realize what all races are now fighting for.

For the first time since our modern era began, the people of all warring nations can say in truth: "We are fighting for our lives. We are fighting to save ourselves from those who would destroy us. No matter how long it takes, nor how great the cost in treasure and lives, we must fight on until we win, for defeat would mean utter ruin."

There are many Germans who hate Hitler, and millions who never have accepted his ideas, but differences are forgotten now. They all know that German cruelties have invited a revenge which no conquered nation could survive. They know they must win or die.

"Triumph Over Pain," a movie in the making in Hollywood, stars Joel McCrea as Dr. William Morton, the Boston dentist "who discovered the use of ether as an anesthetic."

Georgians have thought that old control very had been effectively settled in favor of Dr. Crawford W. Long, for whom the big hospital on Linden street is named.

Received in the mail new issue of The Spokesman, published by inmates of the state prison at Reidsville.

It was enclosed in an envelope of manila paper thick and strong enough to replace a busted window pane to keep the wind out. And we are being urged to conserve paper.

Army and Navy items from all

It Was Doc Morton Who Found Ether In Hollywood Version

The camps reach my desk to be boiled down. Day or two ago there arrived, under government frank, thirteen sheets of news from one southwestern camp. Each sheet contained notice of the arrival there of one Georgian. The rest of the sheet was devoted to a boost of that particular branch of the service. That part was mimeographed. The individual name was typed in.

Thirteen sheets of mimeograph paper. Boiled down the news item filled nine lines.

All good newspapers like to get news from the camps about home boys and what they're doing. But if the government desires to conserve paper why not inform a few commanding officers?

She Wanted To Know

From a friend of mine, who received it from a brother in Florida, there comes a clipping. It is so yellowed with age that it may be new again. Anyway, you may be interested, as I was:

The following missive was received by the forest ranger of the Pasadena district and read recently ly at the annual dinner of the Sierra Club in Los Angeles:

"I see in a paper that a man named J. S. — was attacked and set up by a bare whose cubs he was trying to get when she bare come up and stop him by eating him up in the mountains near your town. What I want to know is did it kill him or was he only partly et up and is he from this place and all about the bare. I don't know but what he is a distant husband of mine. My first husband was of that name and I supposed he was killed in the war but the name of the man the bare et being the same I thought it might be him after all an I ought to know if he wasn't killed either in the war or by the bare for I have been married twice and their ought to be divorce papers got out by him or me if the bare did not eat him all up. If it is him you will know it by him having six toes on the left foot. He also sings base an has a spread eagle tattooed on his front chest and an anchor on his right arm which you will know him if the bare did not eat up these parts of him. If alive don't tell him I am married to J. — W. — for he never liked J. —. Maybe he had better let on and if I am dead but find out all you can about him without his knowing anything what it is for. That is if the bare did not eat him all up. If it did I don't see you can do anything and you needn't take no trouble. My respects to your family and please answer back."

"P. S.—Was the bare killed? Also was he married again and did he leave any property worth me laying claims to?"

Filler-Uppers

I simply can't get excited over possible scarcity of golf balls. But I don't play golf.

Gas rationing, one hears, is keeping even the young folk pretty well at home. I heard of one young man who met a beautiful girl on the family front porch and fell for her hard before discovering she was his sister.

When you "get your mouf all fixed" for something you like and fill it with something different it's quite a shock. The Mistress of the Manor and I had quite an argument over which is worse—to taste sweet milk when you thought it was buttermilk or vice versa. Both of us like both—but we like to get what we thought we were getting.

Thieves Strike From All Angles

Thieves struck at Mr. and Mrs. Owen Eggers, 725 Washington street, S. W., from all angles Wednesday night.

After enjoying a movie, the couple went to their automobile, parked on a downtown parking lot and discovered that a thief had pried open the car door, removing a rifle and a box of shells.

A short time later, upon arriving at their home, police were told, burglars had arrived ahead of them, and pried open the front door. The house had been thoroughly ransacked.

Trust Charges Name Powder Firms, Officials

Six Manufacturers and 10 Executives Accused by Federal Jury.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—(AP)—Six firms manufacturing explosives and 10 officials of the companies were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of conspiring to maintain prices "at high, arbitrary and artificial levels."

Named in the indictment were E. I. duPont de Nemours & Company, the Hercules Powder Company, Wilmington, Del.; Austin Powder Company, Cleveland; Illinois Powder Manufacturing Company, St. Louis, and the King Powder Company, Cincinnati.

The defendants controlled 75 per cent of the total volume of commercial explosives and blasting supplies produced in the United States, the indictment said.

A spokesman for the Hercules Company said the officers had not seen the indictment, but "we are not guilty of violating the anti-trust act." He pointed out that a grand jury in Richmond, Va., threw out indictments against the company May 19 and "if it is the same as the one before us, the charges cannot be sustained." The other companies made no statements.

Individuals indicted were: S. G. Baker, director of sales of the explosive division of duPont, and his assistant, H. W. Hobson; C. C. Gerow, director of sales for Hercules and his assistant, H. M. Lynch; E. Frost, director of Atlas Sales and his assistant, W. E. Hazlett; Norman T. Alexander, vice president of Austin; M. J. Moses, sales director of Illinois; Eugene King, president, and F. T. Morse, sales manager of the King Company.

The bill said the "conspiracy dated back to 1938; that sales at collusive prices were made to consumers and jobbers generally, and to federal, state, county and municipal governments."

Allen A. Doherty, special assistant to Attorney General Francis Biddle, said counsel for the companies would be requested to arrange bail so a date for trial can be fixed by Federal Judge Bard. Maximum penalty on the charge is one year imprisonment and $5,000 fine for individuals. The corporations would be subject to fines only.

VIDALIA, Ga., June 4.—B. B. Davis, who operates the Union Bus station in Vidalia, announces that the station would be kept open all night in the future for the convenience of the traveling public, which is increasing daily. It was further stated that a taxi-cab service would be available at the station through the night. An all-night cafe service also is provided in connection with the station.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

NOT MY WAY.

This is the piece about an incident that probably has little interest for most people, but might serve to guide some friend in an hour of temptation. It is about trying to paint with one of these spray guns.

It all came about in this way. In our backyard is a little shack, 16x16, which we use for a gathering place when the young people have steak fries and other meetings in the backyard. The shack had not been painted in a dozen years, and I was saying to some friends that I must paint the little structure before we got into the summer parties in the backyard.

Just who it was who first suggested this spraying business, I am not quite certain. The responsibility seems to lie somewhere between John Kittle and Parks Warnock. Anyway, the idea developed into action, and Mr. Warnock very graciously asked Dick Denton if he would let me use his spraying outfit. The request was granted, and Mr. Warnock does accept the responsibility of having gone and got the outfit and transported it to said backyard at 1011 Oakdale road.

Mr. Denton had some paint properly mixed for use in the "gun," and Roy Davis and I entered upon the untrod road of trying to spray the aforementioned shack. It took us one whole afternoon to try all the wrong ways to use the thing. We couldn't get the air properly adjusted. The rubber tubes all got stopped up. The motor stuck. About the only paint we had sprayed was on ourselves and the surrounding shrubbery.

We did have a few smears on the shack. At that stage of the drama, I called Mr. Denton, and he told me where Roy Phillips was at work, and I hastened to said address and brought Mr. Phillips to the shack and show us how to use the spray. He did. It worked like a charm, and he left us with his blessing. At the end of that first afternoon, we had painted all over ourselves, and a few more smears on the shack. Bracing ourselves for the final onslaught, we started in again last Tuesday at high noon, resolved to finish the job, regardless of how much Parks Warnock, John Kittle, Dick Denton, Roy Phillips and the rest of the world might laugh. We did finish, but it was not a grand finish, in any sense of the word. We had so much paint on our faces even such cherished friends as Ray Wilkerson laughed at us, calling us such names as "ghosts," etc.

I am told that this spray-gun idea is one of the modern expressions of progress in the vitally important matter of painting certain types of structures. Perhaps so, but Roy Davis and I are fully agreed that it is not our way. We simply do not belong to the streamlined boys in the field of painting. Henceforth, we prefer to drop back to the ancient method of using a brush. And this is written to caution any amateur who may be contemplating using a spray to paint a shack. Think twice, dear friend, before you enter upon this disillusioning experience.

BOYS IN SERVICE WANT PACKAGES

Editor, Constitution: Just a line from one of our engraving department men who is now in Our Uncle's Air Corps.

On my way here by train I overheard two ladies talking, and they said they wished they could do something for the boys in the service, but they had to work and did not have time. Well, when I see some of the boys receiving packages from home with cakes and canned fruit and candy, etc., and others sitting around wishing for some, I suggest a package from the busy ladies to some boy in their church or someone that worked with them. It would not have to be much—50 cents in a chain store would make some boy happy. So, how about a package to a boy in service day? We have all other kinds of days, and letters help a lot when we are homesick for The Constitution, which we can't buy here or at Biloxi, Miss. However there are only a few Georgia boys here, most from the north.

SOUTHERN WORRIES ABOUT THE NORTH

Editor, Constitution: Many thought that the south would suffer a financial panic and that there would be plenty of tobacco roads in the south, when the short credit terms and pay-as-you-get plans were put into effect, but instead, it is proving to be a blessing in disguise.

We will be able to adjust ourselves to the credit terms, and be able to pay as we get. Since we have reached that period where we can exist from our Victory gardens, fried chicken, fried in cured fried ham gravy, dewberries, blackberries, huckleberries sweetened with honey as is or in a pie, and it won't be long till peaches, canteloupes and watermelons, not forgetting plums and fresh-water fish.

We, of the south, are beginning to worry about our friends of the north, as we do not know how they will get along without the interest we have been paying to them.

HOUSES OF DIRT SUGGESTED

Editor, Constitution: I notice in the press that there is a shortage of lumber and building material that is causing a shut-down on the housing question or building.

I have before me "U. S. Department of Agriculture, Farmers' Bulletin No. 1500, Rummel Earth Walls for Buildings."

This bulletin shows a picture and detail description of a house built in 1779, in Washington, D. C. This building is 169 years old and is still used as a residence. This bulletin gives other pictures and details for construction of other houses, all of which the earth or dirt at hand is used. This saves the cost on materials, transportation, and there is no tax or governmental restrictions as to the use of dirt for this purpose. This

Commandos, Ships, Planes Smash at Nazi Continent

LONDON, June 4.—(AP)—Britain threw all three of her fighting services against the Nazi continent today in 24 hours of ceaseless assault which clearly paved the way for the great attacking force to come.

While a force of perhaps 200 big bombers battered Bremen in the brief summer darkness, commandos, supported by the royal navy, landed in the very heart of the invasion coast, between Boulogne and the once-glamorous resort of Le Touquet.

They brought back information for evaluation by Allied generals here, at a time when far-reaching plans for the future Allied offensive were being discussed in Washington. The commandos, even chief, Lord Louis Mountbatten, now in the United States capital.

Bombers Cross Channel

Today, in the wake of the commandos, fighters and light bombers swarmed across the channel to attack targets in the Pas de Calais region; the Kentish sky was filled this evening with wave after wave of returning squadrons, and a heavy rumble of explosions rolled across the water from the direction of Boulogne and Calais.

RAF fighters in the afternoon attack ranged from Mardyck on the north to Le Touquet and St. Omer on the south without opposition. In their attack on Boulogne, Boston (American-made) bombers led columns of black smoke rising from the docks. All the bombers were brought safely home.

An air ministry communiqué tonight said that three British fighters were lost throughout the day to one German fighter. The Cherbourg area was attacked in the morning including the bombing of the Maupertus Air Field; docks at Boulogne were bombed in the afternoon sweep over the Pas de Calais zone, and tonight the Dunkirk docks were attacked.

British naval units escorting the commandos engaged two German patrol boats. One was sunk and the other damaged by the British seamen, who themselves suffered neither casualties nor damage to their ships, a combined operations headquarters communiqué said tonight.

Large Fire Left

At Bremen, where the attack was concentrated within half an hour, a particularly large fire was left in the dock area and additional fires were set in the industrial part of the city.

The attack on Bremen, although small in comparison with the four-figure "victory raids" on Cologne and Essen, was called "extremely successful" by an air informant. He said the raiders did proportionately as much damage to the crowded North sea center for Nazi submarine, destroyer and aircraft manufacture as did the larger Ruhr attacks.

The city was brightly lit by flares and heavily and methodically bombed.

Stranded Craft Of Commandos Escapes Nazis

'Jerry Has Got Jitters,' Says 23-Year-Old Veteran.

(The following eyewitness account of the Commando raid today on the Boulogne-Le Touquet area was written by a Christian Science Monitor correspondent, R. Maillard Stead, who was chosen by lot from among American correspondents in London to accompany the raiders. He was the first United States correspondent to go with the Commandos.)

By R. MAILLARD STEAD.

WITH THE BRITISH COMMANDOS OFF NORTHERN FRANCE, June 4.—(AP)—The shape of far more fearsome things to come loomed up before the startled Nazi sentries on the French coast this morning when I saw some of Britain's toughest Commandos wade silently through breast-high surf between Boulogne and Le Touquet, shoot up German strong points, and depart safely with useful information and very slight casualties.

This was a significant commemoration of the second anniversary of completing the evacuation from Dunkirk, for, though a small raid, it was one more promise that the defense era was ending for the United Nations in western Europe, and the Nazis were about to be called on in a big way to show whether they can take what they have been so ready to hand out.

In the latest illustration of combined land, sea and air operations directed by Lord Mountbatten—now conferring with American service chiefs in Washington—the Commandos were led into action by 29-year-old Major K. R. S. Trevor, a nephew of T. W. Trevor, a retired British barrister residing in Charlottesville, Va.

The reconnaissance was a limited one, but was carried out with an audacity that underlined the potentialities of this type of warfare in relation to American-British plans for a continental offensive.

The craft in which I was crouching after the withdrawal of the Commandos started became temporarily stranded on one of the tricky sandbanks which the rest of the assault party avoided. Tucked out by dazzling searchlights, we remained stationary long enough for Nazi gunners to get the range and give us a sensational series of narrow escapes. Glittering tracer bullets converged overhead, water splashed from near misses, but nobody was seriously hurt and we floated off again and resumed the homeward journey.

The brief raid showed, in the words of one veteran Commando officer, aged 23, that "Jerry has got the jitters."

Bette Davis Film Begins Run at Fox

'My Favorite Blonde,' 'Reap the Wild Wind' Are Hold-overs.

A drama, starring Bette Davis, George Brent, Olivia De Havilland and Dennis Morgan is offered at the Fox and two hold-overs play at the Capitol and Roxy theaters starting today to complete the weekend change in theater offerings for Atlantans.

"In This Our Life" is the title of the Fox picture. "My Favorite Blonde" and "Reap the Wild Wind" are the hold-overs.

Fox.

"In This Our Life," one of the most poignant dramas of the year, a story of how a ranking southern family, the Timberlakes, is torn apart by the selfishness and hate of one of its members, opens on the screen of the Fox theater today. The film features a brilliant cast which includes Bette Davis, George Brent, Olivia De Havilland and Dennis Morgan.

Set in the deep south, the story tells of how Stanley Timberlake (Miss Davis) first wrecks the life of her husband, then one by one, the lives of other members of her family through her headstrong determination to gain what she wants at any cost.

The picture is not without its tender spots when Olivia De Havilland and George Brent meet through mutual unhappiness, and fall in love.

Capitol.

Cecil B. DeMille's Technicolor hit, "Reap the Wild Wind," has proved such a hit with Capitol theater audiences that Manager Earl Holden is holding this picture for a fourth week in Atlanta.

Starring in the picture, which tells the story of the sea, of pirate days off the Florida keys, of battles below the surface with giant squids, and of sailing ships, are Ray Milland, John Wayne, Paulette Goddard, Raymond Massey, Robert Oreston and Susan Hayward.

Roxy.

"My Favorite Blonde," with Bob Hope and Madeleine Carroll as the stars, moves to the Roxy theater today for a hold-over engagement. In this picture, Hope becomes involved in a Nazi plot to trap British agent. The British agent

All Together—Hooray for Dad! His Day Will Come on June 21

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

Governor Talmadge sat mopping his brow, simmering in the heavy leather steam cabinet known as the executive chair. The capitol lawn outside was stewing in the rays of a sun on war time. The heat bounced in through the windows of the executive department. His Excellency was visibly wilting.

The Governor is trying to be quiet these days. He's rationing his thunderbolts for the day, later on this summer, when he'll need them.

The Democratic State Executive Committee will meet Saturday and the Governor had no comment. "Wonder what they'll do over there?" he offered to queries for the inside dope. "Wonder what date they'll set for the closing date?"

He gets bored himself with the small talk he limits himself to these days.

"Tell you what, Mobley," he said to his executive secretary. "When's Father's Day?"

Carlton Mobley consulted Miss Elsie Ray, who takes care of the details.

"June 21," reported Miss Ray. "Take a proclamation," breathed the sweltering Governor.

WAR BOND SALES.

QUITMAN, Ga., June 4.—While people here did not turn in the number of pledges asked for in the May war bond drive, the actual sales far exceeded the quota. Many businessmen invest all they can in bonds. Local industrial plants have their employees investing part of each week's pay check and 1,000 children in the local schools, colored and white, are all buying stamps.

Peachtree Rd. Church Opens New Building

370 Attend Dinner Marking Completion of Hall.

The newly completed great hall of Peachtree Road Methodist church was formally opened last night with a dinner attended by 370 guests. Pastor of the church is the Rev. N. C. McPherson Jr.

The new building, completed yesterday afternoon, is the first unit in a building program which will add three buildings to the church, McPherson said. Construction on the other two buildings, however, has been delayed for the duration.

The structure, which will serve as a church dining room and recreation hall, is patterned after a medieval English dining hall.

FOOD INSPECTOR.

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 4.—Jack Grist, director of vocational agriculture at Rosemont school, has been chosen one of six out of 30 candidates to be appointed for training as federal food inspector, and will leave this weekend for Pennsylvania to assume his duties. His successor at Rosemont has not been named.

Bill Voted Giving New War Power to Nelson

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—The senate today completed congressional action on a bill giving War Production Chief Donald Nelson authority to approve war production programs without regard to the anti-trust and federal trade commission laws.

The anti-trust exemption power was part of a composite measure setting up a $150,000,000 smaller war plants corporation within the WPB to mobilize, through loans, the productive facilities of small business for war purposes.

Hartsfield Begins Gas Economizing

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday initiated his own personal economy and gasoline conservation program.

He sent the large and heavy official car to the garage and brought a light, 1941 model police car to the city hall, asserting it will be the mayor's car except on special occasions, when he will press the larger machine into service.

"The small machine will cost less to operate and will conserve gasoline," he said. "I think we should all co-operate to help win the war and every pint of motor fuel saved is just that much more for our motor equipment and that of our Allies."

French To Close Firms Using Too Much Coal

PARIS, Occupied France, June 4.—(AP)—As a part of the effort to develop industry along more productive lines, the secretariat for French industrial production announced today that some 1,300 firms would be closed for using too much coal.

By McFeatters Firms Making Golf Clubs Get Time Extension

Can Use Stocks of Steel Already Made Into Parts.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Golf club manufacturers, originally ordered to close down May 31, were given permission by WPB today to continue production for another month, provided they use only stocks of iron and steel which were fabricated into golf club parts before April 9, 1942.

OPA Fixes More Prices.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration fixed maximum prices today on a variety of military goods sold or delivered to war procurement agencies after July 1.

The ceilings are fixed at the highest price at which sale or delivery of a particular item was made before April 1, plus an amount proportionate to the seller's increase in materials and labor cost, between the time the contract was placed and March 31, 1942, plus wage increases as a result of collective bargaining or other union negotiations prior to April 27.

The ceilings apply to yarns, textiles and textile products, leather and fur products, rubber fabrics, clothing and shoes; and wearing apparel when made in accord with military specifications.

WPB To Survey Steel Warehouses.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—The War Production Board announced today that it would begin shortly a survey of the operations of 800 large steel warehouses, and would initiate punitive action where priorities were found to have been violated.

WPB said that 200 investigators of the War-Hour Division of the Department of Labor would be used for the field examinations.

Approximately 15 per cent of all iron and steel production is distributed through warehouses and WPB said "it is essential that these products be stocked and distributed in accordance with the needs of the war program."

Colquitt Clubs Hold 4-H Rally At Moultrie

Club Work in National Defense Is Theme of Session.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MOULTRIE, Ga., June 4.—More than 500 boys and girls, representing the various 4-H Clubs of Colquitt county, gathered at Arrow-S Club Friday for their annual rally.

The program, arranged under the direction of Miss Eva Claire Shiver, county home demonstration agent, and F. N. Poole, county agent, included a number of recreation activities as well as events portraying the work done by the groups during the year. The keynote of the exercises was "4-H Clubs in National Defense."

The morning activities were largely recreational, including skating and swimming, and in the afternoon the contests were features.

The Funston 4-H Club presented a playlet, written by Miss Shiver and entitled "4-H Clubs in National Defense" and the Okaloosa girls appeared in an interesting skit.

In the public speaking contest, first place went to Rhonwyn Lowery, of Reedy Creek, and second place to Helen Suber, of Funston. Agnes Willis, of Reedy Creek, won the top place in the dress contest, and second and third places, respectively, were awarded to Katherine Mims, of Hartsfield, and Peggy Sumner, of Ty Ty. Betty Mercer, of Ty Ty, captured first place and Katherine Mims, of Hartsfield, second place in the bread contest. Winifred Allegood, of Fun-ton, won the first place in the boys' speaking contest.

In the team demonstration, Ellen Chisholm and Janet Mashburn, using "Nutrition in National Defense," were the winners. All first-place winners will compete in the district meeting to be held in Tifton on July 6 and 8. A prize of $1 was awarded to the boy who walked the farthest distance to the rally, and this distance was six miles.

The group opened their program with the 4-H pledge, and the pledge to the flag, followed by the singing of "God Bless America." At noon a picnic lunch was served.

KIWANIS SPEAKER. MONTEZUMA, Ga., June 4.—M. C. Gay, of Washington, D. C., spoke to the Kiwanis Club in Montezuma Wednesday in the interest of the State Agricultural Council. Mr. Gay said that the necessity for conserving all foods is greater than the people realize. Mayor John T. McKenzie presided at the luncheon and introduced the speaker.

CHAIR STOLEN. VALDOSTA, Ga., June 4.—(AP) C. Iham Caesar hopes the thieves who robbed his home get as much comfort as he did out of one of the stolen objects—a rocking chair. If they do, he thinks maybe they will feel so badly about depriving him of so much comfort they will hurry right back and return it.

Post-War Program Planning Urged Now LONDON, June 4.—(AP)—Lord Brabazon, pioneer airman and former minister of aircraft production, proposed today that the United States, Britain and Russia agree now to take post-war control of the air and combine this power with another League of Nations to police the world.

Making his maiden speech as a peer in the house of lords debate on post-war reconstruction, Brabazon, who was given his barony March 27, condemned as "mischievous doctrine," a theory that post-war planning should wait until the cessation of hostilities.

"Let us try to get agreement now," he said.

Only a week ago Lord Brabazon declared before the Royal Aeronautical Society, that winning the war "can never be done by air alone."

Trucking Changes Will Aid Farmers

Southeastern farmers were told here yesterday that changes in trucking regulations, which went into effect this week, are expected to eliminate hardships originally feared.

Ray G. Atherton, associate director of ODT's division of motor transport, said the changes would pave the way for continued delivery of feed and other supplies to farmers.

Under the revisions, retail deliveries may be made to all utili-

mate consumers such as farmers under the classification of local deliveries, Atherton pointed out.

• • • NEXT MONDAY will mark the tenth wedding anniversary of Gene and Isabelle Roberts Smith, and to celebrate the auspicious occasion they have planned a dinner party which will assemble the 24 members of their wedding party at their home on North Decatur road. The predominant decorative note of tin, signifying the tenth anniversary and which, of course, is priority now, will be expressed in the table setting of tin plates, tin cups, and tin vessels for the flower arrangements. That is, if Uncle Sam will permit Isabelle to buy these articles made of metal.

And here is the clever invitation Monday's hostess composed to send her guests:

"Ten years ago on June the 8th all of us were very sedate. The wedding march gave us all a thrill.

Come Monday next, let's repeat the bill. When at 8 the clock will strike, Come to our home by car, skates or bike."

The officiating ministers at the wedding and their wives, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Barton and Dr. and Mrs. John B. Peters, will be invited for dinner, in addition to the attendants who include Isabelle's parents, Colonel and Mrs. E. L. Roberts; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rogers; Mr. L. A. Hawkins Jr.; Roy Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Torrance, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Miller Kimbrough, of Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Holsinger, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. ## Mould Your Figure To Fit War Styles

By Ida Jean Kain.

I hadn't intended to mention that fabric rationing in connection with your figure again for awhile but I've been shocked into it. The other evening at a fashion show put on by young designers, I saw dresses made from two yards of material and suits made from two and one-half yards.

It almost goes without saying that the models—the designers themselves—were youthfully slim. They couldn't have been anything else and modeled such fabric saving frocks. Can you imagine anyone with a 30-inch waist and 40-inch hips getting into such closely cut clothes?

Youth is pretty clear-sighted and the way these designers of the future see it slimming is not just going to be fashionable. It's going to be compulsory. When rationing of the material things don't allow for left, a woman won't stall around about losing her excess poundage.

This may seem a remote possibility. But even if it should not come about, there is no question as to the advantage of curves over bulges. Some of the modeling designers—young as they were—had already acquired the middle-aged spread. And in spite of any mention for top honors as to design and workmanship, they did not get the applause from the audience that greeted the slimmer ones.

If you want to put some dash into your wardrobe, trim down. Perk up your posture and cut your waistline and hipline down to the dimensions that are proportionately lovely. Given normal weight to start with, you can do this so quickly that you'll see a change for the better from one week to the next.

Rolling works wonders on both measurements. Sit on the floor, tailor-fashion, with legs crossed at ankles, and grasp ankles firmly with both hands. Keep your back straight and hang on to your ankles as you roll backward on the floor. Don't change your position. Give a heave-ho and try to sit up again as you were. As you roll, bring your weight to bear on the bulges—say roll on right hip diagonally back to rest weight on left shoulder; then roll from right shoulder forward to the left hip. Continue for 10 rolls.

Sideward rocking will take the fat pads off and give you a smooth hipline. Lean back on the floor with flexed legs together, feet held clear of the floor, and rock away over on alternate sides. Give yourself a good push each time and roll in the other direction.

Here's one strictly for the waist: Lie on your back on the floor with arms straight out at sides, shoulder level, for leverage. Swing both legs up to a right angle with the trunk and keep them together. Now try to hold the right angle of trunk and thigh and lower legs to floor at right side. Your upper back should remain flat on the floor. The instant it comes off, you're wasting your energy as far as slimming the waist goes. Drop legs to side, rest, swing back up in air, and drop to the other side. That fairly wrenches off the inches.

A Dog May Serve as a "Hearing Ear"

By Dr. William Brady.

A good deal has been published about the "seeing eye" dogs trained to lead the blind safely in traffic.

Here is a lady who has a "little" cocker spaniel that serves as her hearing ear. She writes:

"I have only one good ear, but when I'm in a crowded noisy public place I seem to hear much better. In fact at times my husband is astonished when I tell him about the conversation I have overheard in a crowded street-car or bus, where he, with two good ears, can hear little or nothing of what passengers across the aisle or several seats away are quietly saying to each other.

In a quiet room, however, I must strain to hear anything and many times I fail to hear sounds I should hear. I have a little black cocker spaniel and he hears for me. He is my companion at all times. Whenever there is a knock at the door or a strange footstep on the stairs or a ring of the door bell he lets me know in a hurry. Yet friends sometimes ask why I bother keeping a dog anyway. They just do not understand the friendship and care that little animals give to one who appreciates it. (Mrs. A.)"

Deafness due to otosclerosis or other trouble in the middle ear cavity (such as the common so-called "catarrhal" deafness) is sometimes characterized by ability to hear better in a noisy place.

Ronald Colman Holds Record Of Twenty Years of Stardom

If the average life of a movie star is five years (as Hollywood statisticians figure it) then Ronald Colman is living on 15 years of borrowed time.

Colman's 20 consecutive years of stardom might be passed by casually as just another anniversary, but a bit of thumbing through screen record books reveals its true significance as a Hollywood milestone. It makes Colman the first film performer—male or female—to stay on top in the "A" bracket over such a period.

More interesting, there remain only a handful of stars with the slightest chance of catching up to Colman's remarkable achievement. Others have had longer careers, but none has attained uninterrupted marquee billing over such a period.

Harry Carey this year celebrated his 33rd year on the screen, alternately as a star and featured player. Colman's closest marathon competitors, all over the 30-year mark, are Wallace Beery, Lionel Barrymore and Donald Crisp. Beery has been a star three times but in between he's slipped to near oblivion.

In 1930, just before "The Big House" again made him a star, Beery said emphatically, "I never want to be a star again. It's too tough a racket." This day he thinks the same. Stardom has made Beery a sizable fortune but it has also curdled his disposition. He trusts few people and showers all his attentions on an adopted child.

Both Barrymore and Crisp once gave up acting for directing. While he was one of the veterans of silent movies, Barrymore's present stardom dates back to 1931, when he won the Academy Award for his performance in "A Free Soul." Crisp's Academy Award of last March for "How Green Was My Valley" was as a featured player.

Oddly, Colman's chief rivals are of the other sex. Both he and Greta Garbo started film work in the same year, 1922. Garbo's first film was "Gosta Berlings," made in Sweden. She became a star in 1926 after "The Torrent." That puts 16 notches on Garbo's stardom stick. Colman played his first lead in "The White Sisters" and was a star in his second, "Romola." Norma Shearer made her first film, "The Stealers," in 1920, becoming a star in 1924, when she joined M-G-M studio. "Sally, Irene and Mary," in 1925, brought Joan Crawford's name into the lights.

William Powell, one of Colman's closest friends, began his career in 1921 with "Sherlock Holmes." Powell's fourth film was "Romola" and his performance therein made him a star. But Bill slipped after a year or so, not to regain his top rating until the original "Thin Man" picture was presented in 1935.

Perhaps the most important contributing factor to Colman's durability has been his way of life. Socially, Hollywood knows little about him. His personal life has been quiet and well ordered, and he has never allowed it to interfere with his profession. Always in demand, he could have made a dozen pictures a year. Instead, he has limited his appearances to a pair. Married to Benita Hume, former English actress, he lives in an English country house back in the foothills of Beverly Hills. He also has a rural residence at Montecito, in the hills back of Santa Barbara.

He is yet ready for retirement. He looks in the pink. When anybody suggests quitting, he says, "It takes a long time to learn a little about acting—20 years is just a good start."

Points for Parents

By Edythe Thomas Wallace.

Son: "Will we have any picnics this summer while Daddy is away at war?"

Mother: "Of course, we will. Daddy wants us to live as nearly like we did before as is possible."

Mother: "The children miss the good times they used to have when their father was home. I can't bear to laugh and play when I don't know what might be happening to him."

When father is with the fighting forces, mother is doubly obligated to keep up the family morale.

claims the government issued a warning against eating pork or ham in any circumstance. (M. B.)

Answer—You are right, your friend is in error. The government issued no such warning. Of course pork or ham should be thoroughly cooked. Thorough cooking kills any larvae of trichinosis the meat may contain. The same is true of beef (to kill any tapeworm larvae the meat may contain) and fish (to kill any broad tapeworm larvae the flesh of fish—especially through Minnesota, Wisconsin or Michigan—may contain).

MY DAY: An Art Collection On American Subjects

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY, Wednesday.—Yesterday morning I went to an exhibition at the Hotel Gotham branch of the Grand Central Art Galleries. This exhibition is for the benefit of scholarships in American citizenship at Barnard College, Columbia University. It is fitting, therefore, that the portraits, sculptured heads and paintings should all feature American historical personages and scenes.

There are some beautiful and interesting paintings with captions well worth reading. One was an interest in our history should fail to see this exhibition, for many of the paintings are in private collections and may not often be seen by the public.

I was glad to see the portrait of Samuel Bard and wondered if it would inspire a few of our medical students to stop at the little Hyde Park church to see the memorial tablet there. Bard College also has interesting books and documents which once belonged to Dr. Samuel Bard.

Robert P. Livingston is in the collection and there are some interesting portraits of women. I liked particularly the bust of James Monroe by Attilio Piccirilli. After I had seen the whole collection, I wandered into an adjoining room to look at a very charming collection of landscapes.

Later I walked up to our 65th street houses thinking I would take a last look round to make sure that nothing was overlooked or neglected, but the doors were tightly closed and I was unable to enter. I lunched with a friend and returned to the apartment to see various people with whom I had appointments.

My friend, Mrs. Franklin K. Lane Sr., has been staying here for a few days and I was delighted to have the opportunity yesterday afternoon to meet her young grandson, who is one of our neighbors in this part of the city. I remember young Mr. Lane Kaufman as a little boy and it was interesting to meet him now as a grown person with something reminiscent about him of his grandfather. In the evening I attended a dinner given to Dr. Alvin Johnson. The history of his attainment is one of such scholarship and of such variety of experience in different parts of the country that one is left with a feeling of gratitude that he is now a fellow citizen of the city of New York.

I am thankful that he heads the new School for Social Research, where, with his gifts of courage and appreciation for ability in different fields, he can make a contribution to liberal education which would not be possible for a man of less heroic mould. I hope he derives some pleasure from the many pleasant things which were said about him last night. At least, he must have recognized his friends who spoke from the heart.

A Trial Separation May Prevent Divorce

Dear Dixie:

I want some advice as I am between the devil and the deep blue sea. I married the girl I dearly love just a few months past. After a few months of married life she told me that she no longer loved me, but gave no reason. She filed a divorce suit against me.

In the meantime, I found out through reliable sources that she was corresponding with a former sweetheart after we were married. A couple of months after our separation my wife began to get in touch with me and wanted me to come back to her, but I was a little doubtful whether or not to go back. I saw my wife after talking to her on the telephone and we talked things over. She apologized for the way she had acted right after we were married and again she told me that she loved me. We rented an apartment and the two of us seemed very happy. After about a month, I noticed that my wife's reactions were very peculiar, so I questioned her and she told me that she was not happy and that she loved this former beau, although she did not know whether she loved me or not. I asked her if her old beau loved her enough to marry her and make her happy if we should get a divorce, for I would rather see her happy than anything I know, but she said she did not know.

I have nothing against my wife. I love her too dearly to let her go without putting up a fight, but I do not know what to do. Should I continue to live with her and try to make her happy and love me? Or should I just give up trying to make her happy and just drop out of the picture so that she could be happy with this other man? I think I have done my part as a husband. We both have everything we need and we live well. I do not want to separate if I possibly can help it, but the situation is about to drive me nuts.

WORRIED.

If you love your wife enough to fight for her, then by all means do not turn her over to this other man without a struggle. I cannot understand why she would have this attitude toward you or why she should take her marriage so lightly. There must be something done to make her realize how much danger she is of losing you, and perhaps losing the other man, too. If there was such a romance between them before your marriage I fail to see why she married you. The other man probably did not want to marry her and she was so fascinated by his indifference that she is not sure of to charm him. I can see that she is not sure of anything. She proves this by not telling you right off hand that she wants to leave you for this other man. You can see for yourself that she is not sure of him nor of herself. I think if I were you I would leave her for awhile and see if the separation would bring her to her senses. Tell her that you are going to give her a trial separation, but that you will not give her a divorce.

Carpenter Hurls 4-Hitter as Chicks Win, 7 to 2

By JACK TROY

A Smart Operator Acquaintance with Frank Pericola, managing editor and sports editor of the Pensacola (Fla.) Journal, goes back a long way . . . to Daytona Beach 15 years ago and better.

Frank's always been a talented newspaperman, and shrewd.

I knew that back in Daytona Beach. But I really didn't know then what his genius would produce.

Today I know.

On page two of The Sporting News, the baseball bible, is the answer in a picture and story of Mrs. Pericola, the former Jane Goldenberg, of Daytona Beach.

Mrs. Pericola, attractive brunet and mother of four, has found time to fulfill the genius of Sports Editor Frank.

As official scorer for the games in Pensacola (South-eastern League), she is doing a thankless job which her husband was appointed to do.

And, as one might suspect, there is no serious objection to her scoring. There is, indeed, praise.

This is something her husband, as an official scorer, never heard.

Like all official scorers, he never called a close one right in the eyes of the players. Either the pitcher or the batter or the fielder insisted he was wrong. And often the fans agreed.

Praise, Indeed Scoring is not new with Mrs. Pericola. She has been filling in for industrious husband Frank, who manages to be elsewhere on the pretext of being busy, since 1937.

And if the players have any objection to any plays she calls, they're too diplomatic to say so. In fact, they are enough of diplomats to be complimentary, if they have anything to say. The visiting clubs point out they always get a square deal on scoring in Pensacola.

Buster Chatham, shortstop-manager of the Fliers, says:

"She is an exceptional judge of hits and errors."

Dee Moore, former Southern leaguer and manager of the Anniston Rams, adds, "She is very fair to the visiting club. Our club is sure of a square deal in Pensacola."

And Wally Dashiell, former manager of the Fliers and now pilot of Dallas, declares her judgment equals the work of any scorer in the business.

And one can well believe the players are not passing out praise freely for their own protection or on the theory that the female of the species is susceptible to flattery. That's a thought, but of course no baseball player would think of doing such a thing. Not Buster Chatham, anyway. Or Dee Moore, one of the visiting firemen. No, certainly not.

Now, if I didn't have these bow legs and could trade for a blond wig . . .

The new hero of Detroit fandom is Jimmy Bloodworth, who used to play second for Chattanooga. The boy has done the incredible job of replacing the impeccable Charlie Gehringer, Tiger keystone ace.

Seems to be a lot of interest stirring over this weekend's Hale America sectional qualifying at East Lake. Seven places for 66 Atlanta and Dixie golfers, exclusive of Bob Jones, who's playing anyway. Gallery proceeds from Saturday and Sunday play is to be split 50-50 between USO and Navy Relief.

Perfect setup for the baseball lovers in the Ozarks. Both Little Rock and Memphis are in the thick of the pennant fight, and the possibilities are endless.

Three Cracker Hurlers Fail To Stop Memphis

Atlanta 3 1/2 Games Back; Win Is Tenth for Carpenter; Lochbaum Pitches Tonight.

By JACK TROY

Constitution Sports Editor.

Lewis Carpenter, of Woodstock, Ga., took the tools of his trade, mainly a well-controlled knuckle ball, and fashioned his 10th victory of the season, a four-hitter, against the Crackers last night at Ponce de Leon park. The score was 7 to 2.

Carpenter's highly effective pitching gave the Memphis Chicks a three and one-half game lead over Atlanta in the pennant race and assured them of leaving here with no worse an advantage than when they moved in for a four-game series. The worst they can get now is an even break. And they might even win the series. Last night's win gave them a two-one advantage in games.

Doc Prothro, highly anxious to put the defending champions in the doghouse, will pitch either Lefty Willis or Gene Lambert in the final game of the series tonight, ladies' night. Professor Emile Lochbaum, who lost a 10-inning thriller, 1 to 0, in his last start, will pitch for the Crackers.

CRACKER IN FORM. While Carpenter, a former Cracker, had everything under control last night, allowing hits to only Glock, O'Brien (two doubles) and Nowak. The same could hardly be said of his opponents' three—Jim Mertz, Floyd Stromme and Ed Nowak. Mertz wasn't his usual effective self; Stromme was futile in relief and Nowak stumbled through the end.

The Chicks found the Cracker pitching most desirable, collecting 11 hits in all. Hansen showed the way with three. And Carpenter, winning victory No. 10, still holds the lead among all pitchers in organized baseball. It's quite a feat, having 10 wins in the first week of June.

Because of an injury to Blakey's leg, last night's lineup was rearranged, with Rembert on third, Letchus shifted to shortstop and Glock playing second base.

CHICKS TAKE LEAD. The Chicks followed their custom of taking the lead and scored a run in the first inning. After one out, Fair walked and advanced on Hodge's infield out. Riley singled to center, scoring Fair.

They increased their lead by three more runs in the fourth inning. Fair led off with a single. Hodge flied to right. Riley singled. Adair doubled against the signs, sending Fair home. Gautreaux was purposely walked, and the strategy was okay as Devinci fouled out to Smith. But Hansen followed with a single and Riley and Adair scored.

Hansen's double, a brace of bases on balls, and Fair's outfield fly provided the fifth Chick run in the sixth.

The Crackers hadn't been able to get a base hit until their half of the sixth. Then Nowak, who had replaced Stromme in the top half of the inning, dropped a Texas-Leaguer into left center. Rambert walked, but Adair dropped his fly in short right. Thomassie fanned. O'Brien doubled and Scott scored. Browne, stopping at third, scored on Smith's infield out.

The Chicks were in a scoring mood and added two more runs in the eighth. Gautreaux, Devinci and Hansen hit singles. Gautreaux got an extra base when Thomassie muffed the ball and scored on Devinci's blow. Hansen crossed the plate on a wild pitch. Neither team scored in the ninth.

White, Negro Soldier Ratio Called Unfair

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—

Complaints of two southern congressmen have been lodged with a house subcommittee regarding the drafting of 10 white men to one Negro under the selective service law.

In testimony given in connection with the 1943 labor and federal security appropriation bill, both Representative Hare, Democrat South Carolina, chairman of the committee, and Representative Tarver, Democrat Georgia, said the ratio is unfair to states that have a heavy Negro population.

Tarver said states which have almost a 50-50 ratio should not have to send 10 whites to every Negro, but he thought the ratio ought to be apportioned more equally.

Major Francis V. Keessling Jr., legislative officer of the selective service system, said that while the national ratio is 10 to one, adjustments were being made to conform as far as practicable with individual state populations.

Flagman Loses Leg In Train Accident

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 4.—W. C. Thompson, 23, a flagman on the Atlantic Coast Line, was injured in an accident which occurred in the yards of that road Tuesday.

It was said that Thompson, recently moved here from Montgomery, Ala., was attempting to throw a switch for a freight train on which he worked. As he attempted to board the engine following this action, his foot slipped, throwing him in the path of the train. His body fell clear of the engine, but his left leg was caught under the train. The crew rushed the engine back to the station and sent the injured man to a local hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate the leg below the knee.

Mr. Thompson is expected to recover.

War Areas Are To Get Insect Control Funds

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—

Under a $6,499,314 appropriation asked by the Public Health Service for the fiscal year 1943, 150 war areas in the southeast would be covered by mosquito and dog fly control programs.

The areas include: Alabama—Maxwell Field, Muscle Shoals, Tuskegee, Phenix City, Decatur, Dothan, Calhoun and Mobile.

Florida—Tallahassee, Pensacola, Valparaiso, Panama City, Jacksonville, Miami, Camp Blanding, Ocala, Clewiston, Lakeland, Ocala, Sebring, St. Augustine, Daytona Beach and Orlando.

Georgia—Camp Wheeler, Camp Gordon, Camp Stewart, Savannah area, Brunswick area, Fort Benning, Albany, Valdosta, Moultrie, Douglas, Macon area, Marietta and Bainbridge.

More Training Units Are Urged for Georgia

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—

More apprentice training projects for Georgia are being asked by Representative Tarver, a member of a subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee.

Records of the Division of Labor Standards showed only two such training projects in the state with no apprentices listed, he said. He added that Georgia's 3,000,000 population should be included in the apprentice training program.

During hearings on the Department of Labor, Federal Security Agency, 1943 appropriations bill, William F. Patterson, chief of the apprentice section, said demands for apprentice service had not been heavy from Georgia.

HURT IN CRASH

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 4.—W. G. English, local plumber, is in a local hospital suffering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident just outside Brunswick at noon Wednesday. English, who was alone in a light truck which collided with a truck in the intersection of the highway, is suffering from fractures of both legs and deep lacerations on his head and neck.

He was taken to the hospital by ambulance. English is expected to recover.

STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP)—

Persistent aerial blasts at Germany more than offset the Japanese bombing of Dutch Harbor as a market factor today and leading industrial stocks extended Wednesday's last-minute slump by fractions to around three points.

Motorists led the early upswing on good volume. Specialties, mail orders and farm implements then joined the procession. There was occasional profit selling, however, and final prices were under the best in many cases.

Rails, steels, oils, coppers and aircrafts failed to do much although the last-named displayed belated resistance.

There were a number of new year's highs posted during the day. Among them, duplicating, Good Year, Chrysler, Goodyear, United States Rubber, Pepsi-Cola, American Can, Montgomery Ward and Pan-American Airways.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held an uptick of 4.4 points at 35.4, duplicating yesterday's recovery. Transfers of 524,300 shares compared with 334,020 the day before and were the largest since May 21.

Bonds generally advanced. Fumebond, Creole Petroleum, American Gas, American Cyanamid, North American Power "A," Singer Manufacturing and Sherwin Williams.

Mobile Units Help Chinese Guerrilla Army

Fighters Dupe Japs With Hare-and-Hound Tactics.

CHUNGKING, June 4.—(NANA) A guerrilla fighter, by derivation, is one who wages a "little war." But dictionaries will have to find a new word for the Chinese guerrilla fighter, whose activities for five years cannot be described as little in any sense. During the last year, for instance, Chinese guerrilla forces have engaged the enemy 4,800 times, inflicting enemy losses of 150,000 men dead or wounded.

Chinese guerrillas, like Concord's "embattled fighters," owe much of their success to the fact that they know their terrain and can dupe the enemy by hare-and-hound tactics. They also depend greatly, as American revolutionists did, on the active co-operation of the civilian population.

The basis of a guerrilla army is in the villages. If anything happened to make the people leave their homes, it would be impossible for it to continue fighting long. That is why the Chinese industrial co-operatives are important. Given the right organization, the people can stick to the countryside even after their homes have been burned and their crops destroyed by the Japanese. The guerrillas have to come and go, but the co-operatives can stay.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

Everybody is talking about invading Europe but I refer to the proverb about a watched pot never boiling.

It's never aluminum either.

I think the Allied command would be nuttier than a fruit cake if it told us what it is going to do. Wars and process serving should always rely on the element of surprise.

Europe is going to be invaded sure as jumping cats. But it's going to be in a spot between the shoulder blades where the other guy cannot scratch it.

It's tough on us grandstand managers, but when the rap comes it will be a surprise. Pin this on your windshield with your A-card.

Even if they cannot hang an "Indusco" sign on their gate, they can still work together and keep a place warm for the Army until we come back.

Needs Are Simple. The needs of front-line and rear-line armies are simple: Uniforms, leather for shoes and equipment, wool and blankets, iron, coal, horseshoes and hand grenades, and these are being produced easily by small industrial units working next to the front.

When the 93d Army was in Shansi, several mobile co-operatives followed the army from place to place, supplying it with shoes, uniforms, and even printing newspapers that kept the soldiers informed of what was happening on other fronts. American funds have helped to maintain these vital mobile co-operatives.

From early in 1938 until May, 1941, the 93d Chinese Army operated for the most part behind enemy lines in Shansi, blowing up trains, sacking Japanese supply dumps, setting fire to their gasoline and making off with as much canned food and beer as it could carry. Once 300 Japanese army trucks were trapped and smashed with hand grenades in a gorge, blocking for weeks the Shansi railway from Chincheng to the Tungpu railway.

Japs Slow to Learn. It was a long time before the Japanese caught on. One could read reports of Chinese sending new units to this point and to that point, but it was known it had been our own mobile units all the time, aided by the small industrial co-operatives.

"Indusco" is not only a way to supply simple military needs. It also is a step towards the industrialization of China. Ultimately, Chinese military strength falls below that of any great power only by reason of the comparatively weak industrial backing given to her armies. In other respects—numbers, courage and military skill—the Chinese army is a match for that of any other country. By the support it is building for the army and by the new strength it is bringing to the people, "Indusco" is a true acting-out of the Chinese revolution, which overthrows ancient dynasties and gave China a president instead of an emperor.

City Sidetracks Plan To Supply Water to Bell

Differences Over Connecting of Mains Must Be Settled.

City authorities yesterday sidetracked efforts to supply 60,000,000 gallons of water monthly to the Bell bomber plant pending settlement of differences between the city and Fulton county officials over connecting of mains on North Side drive.

Z. L. Smith, general manager of waterworks, ordered employees to cease preparations for connecting the new 20-inch main from North Side drive and Arden road, being laid under the supervision of Army engineers, to the new 20-inch main the city laid last year on North Side drive. He said the action was taken after official notification by county authorities that they granted permission to make the connection if the city agreed to change existing grades on North Side drive.

County Demands.

Compliance with the demands of county officials that the city establish new grades in conformity with the county's plan.

STOCKTON, Cal., June 4.—(AP) Fire, preceded by an explosion, swept quickly through an Army building and left 11 dead and another 9 severely burned today.

The nature of the explosion remained undetermined. The flames spread rapidly and those who died, nine soldiers and a civilian fireman, were trapped in the structure.

The blaze started about 11:30 o'clock last night and burned for 30 minutes. Lieutenant Colonel Floyd H. Tull, commanding officer, appointed a board of inquiry to determine what caused the explosion and fire.

The blast apparently did not originate in munition or ordnance stores.

Highway Patrolmen raced from San Francisco blood bank with flasks of plasma, and hospitals here sent serum to the Army post, as doctors and nurses joined the Army staff in caring for the injured men.

Weather, U. S. Scores Philip Murray's Red 'Alliances'

Miners' Accusations Are Seen as Move To Expel CIO's President.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Apparently laying the groundwork for expelling Philip Murray from the United Mine Workers, leaders of that union today accused the CIO president of being allied with Communists and supporting their doctrine.

A resolution adopted by the UMW policy committee declared that Murray attempted to belaud it by uttering false and defamatory statements against the union and its president, John L. Lewis.

Murray, whom Lewis removed last week as vice president of the UMW, called the accusations "ridiculous" and remarked that neither he nor his family "ever visited the Soviet embassy or engaged in social powwows with Soviet diplomats." Murray was referring to Lewis' presence at a Soviet embassy reception a couple of years ago.

The miners' unexpected action blasted everything linking them with the CIO except the tattered technical threads which only can be broken in convention next fall. At the same time the seeds of a possible new bitter jurisdictional warfare were seen in the revolt of 50 local unions of District 50, the chemical and dairy farmer branch of the UMW. Delegations, claiming to represent more than 18,000 members in a half dozen cities, appealed to the CIO executive board to give them direct affiliation and to reorganize the coke, gas and byproducts division as a rival to the UMW's farflung District 50.

The UMW resolution said the miners for many years condemned Communism and barred Communists from membership. It did not make the straight-out accusation that Murray was a Communist, but the CIO chief said it was obvious Lewis was shooting at the membership Murray has held all his adult life.

A Small Roast Makes 3 Meals

A roast for a small family is something of a problem. And though this larger piece of meat comes cheaper per pound than steaks and chops, many a housewife passes up the saving because she doesn't want to face the remnants of a roast all week long! If you know what to do with left-over roast, and how, you'll count it a considerable convenience to have cooked meat on hand for several meals. Let's see what can be done. Lamb and veal are the least expensive meats in the market now, so suppose we begin with a rolled shoulder of either. Buy a 2½ or 3 pound rolled shoulder of lamb or veal, have the butcher bone and roll it for you, and you can plan for it to serve two adults three dinners. We'll start with the menus to see how the plan works:

DINNERS.

First Day
Chilled Fruit Juice Cocktail
Roast Shoulder of Veal or Lamb
With Brown Gravy
Farsley Potatoes
Steamed Green Beans
Lettuce and Cucumber Salad
Sliced Fresh Pineapple

Second Day.
Tomatoes Stuffed With Meat and Celery
Minted Carrots
Corn on the Cob
Melon Slice or Fruit Cup

Third Day.
Meat and Mushroom Shortcakes
Fresh Peas
Tomato Jelly Salad
Ice Box Lemon Pie

Roast Lamb or Veal Shoulder.
Wipe meat with damp cloth and place in roasting pan. Rub the top surface with ½ teaspoon dried marjoram. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and a little flour. Do not add any water and do not cover roasting pan. Set oven control at 350 and allow about two hours for cooking. Meat may be basted several times during cooking period with drippings that form in the pan. If meat is very lean, use this mixture for basting: Mix 1 tablespoon lemon juice with 1-3 cup hot water and pour a tablespoonful at a time over the roast. Use with this whatever fat forms in the pan. When meat is done, remove to a hot platter and cut away the strings used to tie it together. To the liquid remaining in the pan add 1½ tablespoons flour and blend until smooth. Stir in 1-1½ cups water, and stir until boiling and thickened. Season with salt and pepper.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Veal Salad.
Cut cold, leftover meat in small cubes to make one cupful. Mix with ½ cup finely cut celery, 3 sliced stuffed olives, 1 teaspoon minced onion and three sliced radishes. Moisten with mayonnaise and season to taste with salt and pepper. Cut a slice from the tops of two medium sized, firm tomatoes and scoop out the pulp with a teaspoon. Sprinkle the inside of the tomatoes lightly with salt and stuff with the meat mixture. Chill thoroughly and then place on a bed of crisp lettuce leaves that have been dipped in French dressing. Garnish with radishes and celery curls. Save the tomato pulp for the jellied salad served next day.

Veal and Mushroom Shortcakes.

There will probably be only the tag ends of the roast left for the third day, but enough for this appetizing dish. Cut the meat into small dice. If there is any gravy left over, put it in a cup and add enough hot water to make 1½ cups of the liquid in all. If there is no gravy, dissolve 2 bouillon cubes in 1½ cups hot water. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan and add 1-4 pound mushrooms peeled and cut in quarters or use canned mushrooms. Cover and simmer for five minutes. Add the meat, one teaspoon minced onion and two tablespoons flour. Mix well together and then add the hot water or gravy, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon tomato catsup or tomato pulp and a little pepper. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes, stirring once or twice. Bake small biscuits in a hot oven, when done split them and put the meat mixture between and on top.

Tomato Jelly Salad.

Mix the tomato pulp from the stuffed tomatoes with ½ cup water and simmer for 10 minutes. Strain and use with enough water to make one cupful. Pour over ½ package of aspic flavored gelatin and cool. When beginning to thicken, add a little sliced celery, radishes, cucumber and pour into two small molds. Chill, turn out on lettuce or cress and serve with mayonnaise.

Fried Tomatoes.

8 to 10 tomatoes
Flour, salt, pepper
1 tablespoon shortening
1-4 teaspoon soda
1 tablespoon sugar
1-2 cup cream
Scald and skin tomatoes. Slice and dip into seasoned flour. Sauté in shortening. When browned on both sides, break up with spoon and add soda, sugar and cream. Season with more salt and pepper, as required. Reheat and serve.

SUGARLESS DRINKS

Summer's advent, along with the sugar ration means that we shall have to do a bit of revising of recipes for our front porch drinks. For long, tall drinks we must have to combat the thirst which comes in hot, sultry weather. Fruit drinks are particularly recommended for adults and children, because they introduce cooling acids and vitamins which are present in all ripened fruit. There is only one caution—do not make drinks designed for thirst-quenching too sweet because they lose much of their cooling effect with too much sweetness. Most drinks can be sweetened with honey or syrup as effectively as with sugar. These facts should be kept in mind:

1. Dissolve sugar, honey or syrup with water to make a simple syrup, and use this syrup as the sweetener instead of putting sugar or sweetener directly into the drink. In making fruit drinks or punches at least one distinctly acid fruit should be used to give life and sparkle to the drink. Carbonated water or ginger ale are good "pickers-uppers" for cooling drinks.

Milk drinks, such as milkshakes, iced cocoa and malted milk, can be used quite successfully in getting children to take their full quota of milk. There is only one word of caution here: If such drinks are made too sweet, or taken too close to a regular meal, the purpose will be defeated, because they will destroy the child's appetite. Given with a meal or far enough apart so as not to interfere with regular eating is a good way of getting some extra food into the very active child.

Simple Syrup for Summer Drinks.

1 cup sugar or
1-2 cups corn syrup or
¾ cup honey, 1 cup of water.

Mix sugar, honey or syrup with water and boil about 10 minutes. Cool and store in covered jar in cool place and use as needed to sweeten all drinks, including iced tea.

Spiced Fruit Punch.

1 cup honey
1 stick bark cinnamon
4 whole cloves
1-8 teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups orange juice

Long, tall drinks defeat summer's heat and thirst.

Serve fish fillets, fried, baked or broiled, often.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
Edited by SALLY SAVER

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY, JUNE 5, 1942.

1 cup pineapple juice
1-3 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 cups iced water
1 quart ginger ale

Simmer honey and spices 2 minutes. Discard spices and cool. Combine juices and iced water. Add spiced honey. Chill until needed, then add chilled ginger-ale. Garnish with fresh berries or mint.

The fruit nectars which come in cans make very good drinks. Chill them thoroughly and serve with a scoop of sherbet or ice cream. This makes a very easy and nutritious refreshment for a child's party, or for simple after-noon refreshments for grown-ups.

Cereal makers are trying to help with the sugar problem. Dried fruits contain natural sugar and are being added to some of your favorite crisp cereals so that less sugar is needed at serving time. Mrs. Harry N. Smith Jr. is pleased at being able to serve one of these pre-sweetened bran cereals.—(The brand name given upon request.)

Fish Is Thrifty And Nutritious

When planning meals don't overlook the fact that seafoods are rich sources of certain minerals, for example phosphorus and iodine, which are not found in such quantities in other foods. Fortunately, too, for the food budget, seafoods furnish these elements cheaply. Fresh fish, fish fillets and frozen fish of many kinds are available at all seasons and should be served at least once a week.

Broiled Fish Steaks.
Sprinkle fish steaks (or fillets or small whole fish) with lemon juice. Flour on one side only. Place floured side down on preheated pan (rack removed) with enough fat to cover bottom of pan. Sprinkle with paprika and broil until browned without turning. About 12 minutes will do it. Serve with lemon, tartar or other sauce.

Broiled or Baked Mackerel.
Have the fish cleaned, trimmed and split through. Rinse in cold water and drain thoroughly. Place skin side down in a well greased, shallow pan. Sprinkle the fish lightly with salt, pepper and flour. Bake in a hot oven—450 degrees—for 15 minutes or broil about 5 inches below the broiler flame for 12 to 15 minutes. Thin strips of bacon may be placed over the fish before baking if desired.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

When making meat soups or stock for soup, cover the meat and bones with cold water and heat slowly to the boiling point to draw out the meat juices and flavor; when making stews or fricassees use boiling water to keep most of the flavor in the meat.

Beets.
Beets that cook in 10 minutes are well within the realm of possibility if the beets are first run through the food chopper—and why not take advantage of such a time saver? Peel young beets, cut in quarters and put through the food chopper, saving all the juice. Put the chopped beets and the juice in a heavy saucepan, add 2 tablespoons butter to each 2 cups beets, 1 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Cover closely and cook for 10 minutes, shaking the pan several times to keep the beets from sticking—no water is needed. Uncover, sprinkle with lemon juice and serve hot or cold.

Cottage Cheese Crepes.
4 eggs
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup sour cream
¾ cup sifted flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
Beat the eggs well, add cottage cheese and sour cream and continue beating until well blended. Combine and sift dry ingredients. Stir into first mixture gradually, beating well after each addition. Drop by tablespoons on medium-

New Cabbage.
Cut new cabbage into quarters, leaving in the core to hold the leaves together. Drop into rapidly boiling salted water and boil for 10 minutes. Drain, arrange on a hot-platter and pour tomato catsup over each quarter, serving very hot with broiled slices of ham. Extra special and be sure to have plenty of it!

Steamed Blueberry Pudding.
1-4 cup shortening
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1-2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
2 cups blueberries
Cream the shortening and sugar. Add salt and beaten eggs. Sift together the flour and baking powder. Add to first mixture alternately with the milk. Stir berries into the dough and pour into buttered molds or custard cups and steam one hour in steamer. Serve with flavored, sweetened cream, or hard sauce.

Riverside Again Given High Rating

GAINESVILLE, Ga., June 4.—(AP)—Riverside Military Academy has been named an honor school—the War Department's highest official rating—for the 20th consecutive year, officials announced today.

Riverside holds the southern record for the long string of honor ratings, Registrar James K. Moon said.

Navy Recruits To Take Oath En Masse Here

Atlanta Will Share in Nation's Pearl Harbor Memorial Program.

Atlanta will take part in the Navy's "Six Months After Pearl Harbor" ceremony Sunday afternoon when several score of applicants will be given the oath in a commemorative program on the stage at Loew's Grand theater.

A mass enlistment of thousands of new recruits will be sworn in throughout the nation by the Navy at 2:25 o'clock, the hour and minute that the first Jap bomb fell on Pearl Harbor.

Every city in Georgia where a Navy recruiting station is situated will stage a special ceremony. Lieutenant Commander Stanley A. Jones, officer in charge for recruiting in Georgia, will make an address at the Grand theater. The program will start at 1:55 o'clock and music will be furnished by the Tech High band.

Negro applicants, some 35 of them, will be sworn in at the Royal theater. A commissioned officer will be on hand to swear in the applicants. Tentative plans call for a nationwide broadcast from Washington, during which the oath of allegiance will be given by some outstanding American to all the thousands of boys enlisting.

CLOSING DATE.

ATHENS, Ga., June 4.—(AP)—Closing date for entries in the Georgia Scholastic Press Association annual scholarship contests is Saturday. Each year the association, co-operating with the University of Georgia, gives two tuition scholarships to the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism.

A New 'Mother' Joins the Army

They have a "mechanical mother" in the Army now. She doesn't bake cookies or save the boys' ego, but she performs the more practical function of keeping buttons on their shirts and trousers.

"She" is the button-sewing machine which has been added to the laundries in the southeast.

Army School Center Goes to Chickamauga

2,000 Officers Will Be Trained at Snodgrass-Dyer Field.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(P)—The selection of Snodgrass-Dyer Field at Chickamauga Park, Ga., near Chattanooga, Tenn., as the site of the provost marshal general's school center was announced today by the War Department. The school center will train 2,000 officers and enlisted men at one time in military police work, investigation and other activities of the provost marshal general's department. Colonel Archer L. Lerch, formerly the deputy provost marshal general, will be commanding officer of the center and Colonel Hobart B. Brown, now commandant of the provost marshal general's school at Fort Myer, Va., will be director of all divisions of the school at the new center. The provost marshal general's school, which now has 200 stu-

'Little Chief' Wants To Scalp A Few Japs

He's gnarled and white-haired and he lost his parents half a century ago in an Indian massacre in the west, but "Little Chief," an itinerant patriot who dropped by the information division of the OEM the other day, thinks he has a good slant on fighting the Japs. All that stands in the way of "Little Chief" and General MacArthur wiping up the Pacific is the trivial matter of "Little Chief's" birthday certificate. "I got to git me a birth record so I can join up," "Little Chief" advised the information staff with a wistful urgency. "I got to git in there and scalp me a few Japs," the old man said, cocking his head and winking slyly at a pretty stenographer, "and I know how to do it, too!"

dents, will move from Fort Myer to the new center following graduation tomorrow. Other divisions to be established are the investigation school, officers' candidate school, and World War officers' refresher course.

Bullet Quells Chinese Riot In New York

20 Seamen Bailed in Attempt To Come Ashore.

NEW YORK, June 4.—(P)—A riot by 20 Chinese seamen attempting to go ashore from a Staten Island dock was quelled tonight by Pier Guard Max Mineck with a single bullet which severely wounded two of the Chinese sailors. The riot, one of several such disturbances reported in New York harbor recently, was ascribed by police to the resentment against regulations governing shore leaves of Chinese sailors aboard United Nations vessels. Because of federal regulations requiring $1,000 bonds for Oriental seamen permitted ashore, steamship companies have been giving Chinese sailors leave only in the company of private guards of which Mineck was one.

AROUND Atlanta

WITH THE CONSTITUTION STAFF

City Salesmen's Association will hold its monthly meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at 271 North Boulevard. There will be a general discussion on gasoline and tire rationing and the effect on traveling men. All traveling salesmen have been invited to attend.

Bank clearings yesterday totaled $23,500,000, compared with $13,700,000 for the same day last year.

Charging that the verdict of guilty against him is "contrary to law and the principles of justice," 33-year-old John W. Greer Jr., former state highway purchasing agent, yesterday asked Judge E. Marvin Underwood for a new trial. Hearing date is indefinite.

Offset Elimination Is Up To Council

Elimination of the offset where Ponce de Leon avenue crosses Peachtree street will be begun within about 10 days, if council approves revised plans, Councilman John A. White said yesterday.

City officials have agreed with owners of Georgian Terrace property to create a parkway directly fronting the Georgian Terrace apartments and extending into Ponce de Leon avenue. It will have a five-foot-wide sidewalk extending into the intersection which will act as a safety isle to avoid accidents.

When the offset is eliminated, Ponce de Leon avenue will extend approximately on a line from the Shrine Mosque across Peachtree to a roadway created from property obtained from the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Ovation Given War Breeding Hero Hawes at Divorce Boom, Thomson Game Says Lawyer

Georgian Presented Gifts by Home-Town Citizens at Ball Game.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

THOMSON, Ga., June 4.—Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Hawes, of the United States Navy, who is on a visit to Thomson, was honored by local citizens Wednesday afternoon when about 800 gathered at the baseball stadium.

Lieutenant Commander Hawes, his wife and other members of his family, Mayor H. A. Price, E. C. Hawes, president of board of trade; G. W. Jordan, president of Rotary Club, Rev. A. L. Gilmore, pastor of the Baptist church, were seated on the platform.

The State Guard advanced and presented the colors, after which the Star-Spangled Banner was sung with W. S. Curtis at the piano. The Rev. A. L. Gilmore introduced Lieutenant Commander Hawes and his family and Mayor Price, who presented to Lieutenant Commander Hawes a handsome gold watch and chain and gold handled knife, a gift from the citizens of Thomson. Mrs. Hawes was presented a bouquet of red roses.

In accepting the gifts, Lieutenant Commander Hawes expressed the hope that in the future he might do something that his Thomson friends will really be proud of.

Commander Ellington, a citizen of Thomson, was recently awarded the Gold Star by the Navy for

A post-war boom in divorces was forecast yesterday by an Atlanta divorce lawyer.

"Take all these cases the government's setting up," said the lawyer, rubbing his hands as he envisioned profits.

"When the war's over and they have to go back to normal hustling for an existence in a workaday world—they'll never get adjusted. Today their world is law—after the war it won't be worth any more than yours or mine."

"What'll they do? Why—they're going to take it out on the wife and kids. The wife of a wartime czar has no idea how much of a potential sufferer she is. It'll be tough on the poor kids—but the divorce business will be looking up."

U. S. COURT RECESSED.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday recessed federal court for the remainder of this week and left for Nashville to attend commencement exercises at Vanderbilt University, his Alma Mater. Judge Underwood is a member of the board of trustees.

heroic action as commander of the minesweeper Pigeon during a Japanese bombing attack on Cavite (P. I.) naval base last December.

Following the presentation a baseball game was played between Augusta and Greenville, S. C., with the score, 3 to 2, in favor of Augusta.

Lieutenant Commander Hawes and his family left today for the west coast. His family will spend the summer there.

Hall County Doubles May Quota of Bonds

Monroe County Over-subscribes Fund Set for That Area.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., June 4.—More than doubling its May quota, Hall county reports a total cash sale of war bonds and stamps for last month of $104,700.45, John H. Hosch, Hall County War Savings Staff chairman, Monday notified C. Arthur Cheatham, administrative assistant of the Georgia State War Savings Staff headquarters in Atlanta.

At the same time, Hosch said the total pledged for the next months was in excess of $400,000 in what he termed "the most remarkable response" he had ever witnessed in a drive.

Hall county's quota was $49,500 for May, oversubscribing it by $55,200.45 in order to bring the grand cash total to $104,700.45.

Hosch stated in his official notice to Cheatham that "we have not completed the total pledges for Hall county for May," adding it would be more than $400,000 when figured on a yearly installment basis.

The June quota of $73,200 will be reached, Hosch declared, basing his conclusion on the exceptional response received during May. Plans for the June campaign have not been completed but it is expected that it will follow the general outline of the May drive which included newspaper publicity, radio talks, personal solicitation and posters.

Hosch was high in praise of both the people and the canvassers. He said the response was almost universal, with particularly large subscriptions being received from the mill employees of the section.

MONROE BUYS MANY BONDS

FORSYTH, Ga., June 4.—Monroe county responded to the May quota of $11,500 war stamps and bonds by purchasing during May the total of $40,035.95 worth, according to an announcement by William B. Freeman, county chairman.

The June quota for Monroe county, as set by the Treasury Department, is $16,100. Mr. Freeman believes the county will also meet the June quota.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood heard Powell's petition and continued the case to next Tuesday.

Hearings Held On Bills To Up Federal Wages

Committee Studies Measures Introduced by Ramspeck.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Hearings on proposed house bills to increase the income of the vast army of federal employees are under way this week before the House Civil Service Committee, headed by Congressman Robert Ramspeck, of the fifth Georgia district, who introduced the bills, and a composite bill of some description may reach the house for action sometime next week, it was indicated today.

Two proposals are being studied closely. One is an administration-sponsored proposal and would provide time and a half pay for all hours worked in excess of 40 hours a week. The second would increase salaries of all federal employees a flat $25 a month, or $300 a year.

In addition, there are several proposals by other congressmen to hike federal employees' salaries, and all are getting the committee's attention. Ramspeck introduced the overtime pay bill "by request," according to the printed copy. The other bill does not carry this notation.

Administration Bill. Back of the administration-supported measure is understood to be a program for putting all government workers on a 48-hour week. At present some of them work 39 hours, while others work 48.

Forty hours is more the rule, however. Provision for overtime pay is already made for some phases of work in the war and naval departments, particularly in the drafting sections, but the rank and file of government workers are paid on a 40-hour week basis, with no extra pay for overtime.

The work week discussion by the committee was interesting in the light of statistics which came today from the Labor Department showing how a vast majority of war workers were at their jobs more than 40 hours a week in January, with those employed less than 40 hours a week handicapped by lack of work.

Draws Fire. The National Labor Relations Board drew congressional fire when Representative Malcom C. Tarver, of Georgia, attacked re-allocation of $46,000 by the board from other accounts to field positions after congress had refused to provide funds.

The attack came when the house was considering NLRB funds for the next fiscal year. Board spokesmen defended the action at hearings asserting it was difficult to retain experienced field workers and the reclassification was made only after consultation with the Civil Service Commission and the comptroller general.

"It is the most outrageous misuse of funds that has come to my attention," Tarver told board officials during the hearings.

Another committee member, Representative Engle, of Michigan, said the board had used "mighty bad judgment in adopting a go-to-hell attitude," after the committee previously had "in no uncertain terms" expressed opposition to the promotions of field employees.

STRETCH YOUR COFFEE

Use the size coffee pot best suited to your needs. Use grind suited to your type of coffee. Use drip-type gives you the most for your money. Leave cover off of coffee pot when not in use. Be sure that the coffee pot is clean—scrubbed, not just rinsed. Good way to clean a percolator is to put a normal amount of soapy water in it every week or two and let it percolate for five to ten minutes. Don't let your coffee boil violently. Best and most coffee comes just below boiling temperature—"Steep" it. Drink coffee as soon as it is made. Measure your coffee accurately. One level tablespoon per measuring cup (1 1/2 pint) is usual recommendation. If you do have left-over coffee, pour it in the freezing tray of your refrigerator and use the coffee cubes in "iced coffee" or for flavoring other beverages.

2 teaspoons flavoring (vanilla or other flavoring)

Boil corn syrup in a saucepan over direct heat until it spins a thread when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add Rumford Baking Powder and beating vigorously while adding.
